Defenders Smash Two German Tank Assaults Upon Stalingrad Front

Break-Through Fails as German Infantry Company Wiped Out—New Enemy Threat Develops In Advance Toward Astrakhan on Caspian Sea—Soviets Hold in Caucasus

Hungarians Cross Don

MOSCOW, Oct. 10 (Saturday) (AP).—Stalingrad's defenders were reported officially today to have smashed two German attempts to break through to the Volga east of the city, but dispatches said a new threat had developed in a Nazi advance across the arid Kalmyck region toward Astrakhan on the Caspian Sea.

The Friday midnight Russian communiqué did not mention the Kalmyck area south of Stalingrad after the Government newspaper Izvestia told for the first time of a German penetration there. Nazi seizure of Astrakhan at the mouth of the Volga would spare the Germans further costly losses in frontal attacks on Stalingrad and at the same time control that vital Russian communications artery.

Both tank-supported German efforts to crash through Stalingrad toward the Volga were crushed on the city's outskirts, the communiqué said. One German infantry company was wiped out, it added.

BREAK OUT OF RING
One Red Army unit fighting in the same general area, a workers' settlement to the northwest, outskirts, was reported to have killed 300 Germans in breaking out of a German ring which had been closed on it for several days.

Northwest of Stalingrad, where a Soviet relief offensive has sought to ease the pressure on Stalingrad, the Russians "fortified their occupied positions and on separate sectors engaged in battles of local importance."

Thus, as Stalingrad entered its forty-seventh day of siege, the general position was one of stalemate, the communiqué indicated.

But on a sector of the northwestern front, presumably near Lenin-

SEVEN ESCAPE IN JAIL BREAK

Members of "Terrible Touth" Gang Wound Guards in Getting Free

JOLIST, Ill., Oct. 9 (AP).—Seven convicts, including two top men in the old "Terrible Touth" gang, fled from Joliet Prison today, leaving one penitentiary guard shot and wounded and another slugged.

Four of the escapees, led by Roger Touhy, forty-four, ring leader in the gang that once ruled Chicago's Northwest Side, and Hugh Bail (The Owl) Banghart, forty-one, Touhy lieutenant, made their break in a spectacular dash across the prison yard during the afternoon exercise period.

They fled in a small green sedan parked outside the penitentiary.

OTHERS MISSING
A check-up showed three others missing, possibly escaping in the confusion attending the flight of the Touhy quartet.

Touhy and Banghart were serving ninety-nine-year terms for the 1933 kidnaping of John (Jack) the Barber Factor.

A prison source, which declined to be quoted directly, said Touhy, Banghart, James O'Connor, thirty-five, and William Stewart, forty-three, were exercising when they turned on a guard and slugged him, seizing his pistol.

With the aid of this weapon, two other nearby guards were seized and disarmed, and were used as shields.

Sumner Welles' Speech Protested

SANTIAGO, Oct. 9 (AP).—Chile decided today to protest to President Roosevelt regarding the speech last night in Boston of Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles who said Argentina and Chile are allowing their American neighbors to be "stabbed in the back by Axis emissaries" operating in those countries.

Foreign Minister Ernesto Barrios conferred with President Juan Antonio Rios, who is scheduled to leave soon on a visit to Washington, and then declared that Welles' statement "offends the dignity of this country."

Britain and U.S. Ready to Give Up Long-Held Rights

Chinese Ambassador to Washington Notified of Two Nations' Willingness to Negotiate Treaty For Immediate Relinquishment of Extra-Territorial Privileges

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (CP).—As a magnanimous gesture of political freedom and equality to the Chinese people the United States and Britain are willing to abandon their extra-territorial rights in China, it was announced here tonight by the State Department.

The Chinese Ambassador was informed by Under-Secretary of State Sumner Welles that the two nations are prepared to negotiate a treaty with the Chinese Republic providing for immediate relinquishment of the powers vested from China by the western powers in an earlier age, powers that have come to be regarded in Chinese eyes as humiliating and offensive to a proud and free people.

TREMENDOUS SIGNIFICANCE
The contemplated step has tremendous political significance and its bearing on the post-war world, particularly in Asia and the Pacific, cannot be gauged yet. It is an obvious effort to root out a particularly glaring and prolonged example of imperialism by western powers and to restore full and untrammelled sovereignty to a free people.

It is the first practical application of the Atlantic Charter, particularly of the principle of self-determination, announced on August 1, 1941.

JAPANESE FAIL TO GET WILLKIE

Bombers and Machine-Guns Foiled—Shells Burst Near Hand-Car

WITH THE CHINESE ARMY IN NORTH CHINA, Oct. 9 (AP).—The Japanese have failed again in what appears to have been a determined effort to get Wendell Willkie.

Thirty-five Japanese planes bombed the Honan Province city of Loyang yesterday and machine-gunned a railway coach on a siding there which evidently they believed was the one carrying President Roosevelt's personal representative on his tour of the North China battle zone.

But Willkie wasn't in it; it wasn't even Willkie's car, although it was painted the same blue as the special sleeper which had been used for part of the journey on the Lunghai line.

Willkie did not learn of the attack until he had finished his tour of the Chinese front lines on the south bank of the Yellow River, where he missed enemy shelling by only thirty minutes.

Air Navigators Are Given Wings
TORONTO, Oct. 9 (CP).—Air navigators from Canada, the United States and Great Britain received wings at graduation ceremonies at No. 1 Air Observer School at near-by Malton Airport today.

Among the graduates were: British Columbia: B. S. Jones, North Vancouver; G. A. Lorimer, W. R. Oatway, D. B. Young, all of Vancouver.

EXPRESS ADMIRATION
LONDON, Oct. 10 (Saturday) (CP).—The Daily Express commented on the latest arrival of troops from Canada, said today that the British public offers its "sympathy and admiration" to the Canadian forces. "They have been in Great Britain since within a few months of the outbreak of war and their numbers have been constantly expanding," the newspaper said. "They have had only one taste of action, and that at Dieppe, where they suffered grievous losses, but they did not grumble or complain."

A SINGLE COMMAND
LONDON, Oct. 10 (AP).—Reuter's quoted the Moscow radio today as saying that Premier Stalin had issued a decree creating a single military command in Russia and abolishing the system of political commissars attached to the armed forces.

Hero of War Is Poisoner's Victim

LYON, France, Oct. 9 (AP).—Dick, a dog hero of 1940, has been poisoned and all Lyon has joined the hunt for his slayer. Holder of several citations for heroism, Dick was credited with saving twenty-two Frenchmen and with rounding up and bringing in as prisoners five German army dogs.

The Nazis between the Don and the Volga are compelled to fight in two directions at once, and every day the battle is prolonged their difficulties increase. Their resources are steadily falling, despite reinforcements by land and air.

What is virtually a race against time is proceeding between Timoshenko's forces, bent on relieving the garrison, and the Nazis, who want at least to render the city uninhabitable. Over 1,000 airplanes have been used by the attackers against the Russians, yet the Red troops, in hand-to-hand fighting, beat back the Germans who followed up the dive bombers.

The main Russian relief force appears to be on the Don between Kletskaya and the river's bend. Here the Nazis have been building a part of their so-called east wall, and whether Red troops have been able to pierce it in its half-completed state is not yet known. Strong armored forces are still crossing the Don, and extending the Russian front.

These operations, threaten to take the Germans near Stalingrad in the rear, but no sudden break is expected. Should the Nazis be able to neutralize Stalingrad they could then turn against the foe in their rear.

The Moscow correspondent says that after forty-seven days of fighting the invaders have not yet been able to achieve their aim, blasting their way to the Volga. Five days ago the enemy nearly drove home a surprise attack on a railway leading to the river, but Red Guards, under General Rodimtsev, caught the assailants in the darkness and wiped out many with hand grenades and mortars.

On the Volga, the Russians use floating batteries of the kind that helped greatly in Sebastopol's defense. Powerful armed gunboats also break up German units before they reach the front line.

The Russians are also successful in operations on the Novosokolniki front.

Students' Aid Appreciated

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (CP).—Labor Minister Mitchell said today the co-operation of universities in Ontario and Quebec which are supplying badly-needed harvest help for Western Canada's wheat fields is "greatly appreciated."

Mr. Mitchell said nearly 2,000 students would go to Western Canada to help harvest the crop and some of the smaller universities had furnished some students they would almost close their classes during harvest time.

The minister expressed "very great appreciation" of the response which had come from the students themselves.

His reversal from his previously announced intention of clamping down on the "bookies" followed an opinion from Prosecutor B. Gray Warner that the intermediaries in the betting on out-of-state horse racing were operating within the law.

An earlier opinion by Corporation Counsel A. C. Van Soelen said bookmaking was illegal.

Mayor William Devin was applying pressure for police closure of the bookmaking spots.

Warner cited the legality of pari-mutuel betting on races within the state, and the "bookies" operations were legal as long as they accepted bets under that system. He cited a King County Superior Court decision to support his stand.

Biggest Day Raid Yet As U.S. Bombers Blast Nazi Plants at Lille

LONDON, Oct. 9.—Stalingrad's defenders "are holding firm in their ruined city, and German spokesmen are explaining in Berlin how they are not going to allow their soldiers to attempt to take positions by storm but will pound the city into rubble by artillery fire. This confession of failure indicates, says the Stockholm correspondent of The Times, a desire to conclude operations as quickly as possible, apart from Hitler's promise to effect Stalingrad's capture immediately.

The Nazis between the Don and the Volga are compelled to fight in two directions at once, and every day the battle is prolonged their difficulties increase. Their resources are steadily falling, despite reinforcements by land and air.

Not Taking Action to Close Books

SEATTLE, Oct. 9 (AP).—In the face of contradictory legal opinions from city and county attorneys, Chief of Police Herbert D. Kinsey late today reversed his earlier stand and said he would take no immediate action against Seattle horse race book-makers.

His reversal from his previously announced intention of clamping down on the "bookies" followed an opinion from Prosecutor B. Gray Warner that the intermediaries in the betting on out-of-state horse racing were operating within the law.

Hundred American Fortresses and Liberators, With Escort of 500 British and Canadian Fighter Planes, Reduce Railway Yards to Wreckage And Smash Locomotive Works

Only Four Planes Lost

WITH THE UNITED STATES BOMBER COMMAND IN ENGLAND, Oct. 9 (AP).—More than 100 American Fortress and Liberator bombers with an escort of 500 Allied fighter planes, including two squadrons of Canadians, made the greatest single daylight aerial attack of the war on Hitler's industrial and transport system today at Lille in occupied France.

The raiders, directed by Maj. Gen. Carl Spaatz, commander of the U.S.A.A.F. in the European theatre, smashed factories and railroad yards against strong Nazi opposition and came home with only four of 600 planes missing.

In operation beside the battle-tested Fortresses were the American Liberators, passing their first tests in this battle zone. Both are four-engine bombers.

The raid was greater than anything thrown by the Nazis against England in the dark days of the battle of Britain, before the Nazis called off their daylight attacks and concentrated on night raids.

DOWN NAZI PLANES
The communiqué announced the great Allied fighter escort knocked down at least five German fighters in widespread aerial dogfights but no attempt has been made so far to total up the number shot down by bombers.

The Liberators alone claimed an unofficial total of seven Focke-Wulf 190's destroyed.

American airmen in the raid told The Associated Press correspondent that Nazi fighters, including Goering's proud yellow-nosed squadron, had machine-gunned the crew parachuting to earth from one crippled Fortress.

The greatest American aerial exploit of the war came two days after the warning from the United States by radio to the French people to

HEAVILY BOMB JAPANESE BASE

U.S. Army Air Force Systematically Blasting Aleutian Stronghold

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP).—The army air forces dropped fifteen tons of bombs on the Japanese base at Kiska Island last Tuesday, the navy announced today, indicating that a systematic campaign had been undertaken to reduce to rubble and ruin the last enemy stronghold in the Aleutians.

Eight tons of bombs were dropped on the enemy camp area, starting fires and seven tons were released over the vicinity of the seaplane base with unannounced results.

In addition a cargo ship in the harbor was attacked and left afloat and sinking, the radio station was damaged by strafing, and two seaplanes were hit, one being destroyed and the other damaged.

FOURTH BIG RAID
This was the fourth big raid reported on Kiska this month. The same land objectives were blasted with demolition and incendiary bombs on October 1 and 2 and again on October 5, prior to the attack on October 6. The last raid reported was the first for which wreckage figures were given.

Along with the report of the operations at Kiska the communiqué announced that a reconnaissance flight also was made over Attu and Agassay Islands the same day and that no sign was found of any enemy activity on either place. The Japanese apparently withdrew from those islands several weeks ago.

Accused of Being Agent Of Gestapo
MONTREAL, Oct. 9 (CP).—A civilian radio operator of the British Overseas Air Corporation—quoted by a witness as learning himself a Gestapo agent—was ordered today by Judge Maurice Tremblay to appear October 14 for a voluntary statement on charges preferred under the Defence of Canada Regulations.

The operator, thirty-year-old British-born Brian Pettit, underwent preliminary hearing of spreading reports and making statements likely to cause disaffection to the King and to be detrimental to recruiting and the prosecution of the war.

The reference to the German Gestapo came during the testimony of Julia Menard, who said she had met Pettit, former radio operator for the Royal Air Force Ferry Command, in a Montreal night club two months ago.

Miss Menard, of French and Netherlands extraction, said Pettit offered her a $100-a-week job in the Lockheed Aircraft plant in California and then told he was a member of the Gestapo—with a warning she added that she had better follow instructions.

Mr. Mitchell said today the co-operation of universities in Ontario and Quebec which are supplying badly-needed harvest help for Western Canada's wheat fields is "greatly appreciated."

Shouting, Singing, Whistling Canadian Troops Arrive in England After Quiet Atlantic Crossing

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Oct. 9 (CP).—Long trains with soldiers hanging from every window brought thousands of troops of a Canadian armored division to camps of Southern England from ports where they landed after a quiet crossing from Canada.

Glad to get their land legs again, the men whom Maj. Gen. F. P. Worthington commands soon made themselves at home in barracks already waiting for them. Without even pausing to plan for the land leave awaiting them, they asked, "When are we getting going?"

"Getting going" to these men meant resumption of training which the Atlantic crossing interrupted.

They all wanted to know the tank strength of their division and looked up old friends who preceded them here to find out whether the tanks are similar to those on which they worked in Canada.

Train Wreck Starts Fire

MARIONVILLE, Mo., Oct. 9 (AP).—Flames from the wreckage of two Frisco freight trains tonight threatened for a time to result in naptha and gasoline explosions, but at midnight there had been no blasts.

General Manager Fred Shaffer of the Frisco Railroad said the town's water pressure had been dropping as firemen worked steadily to control the fire, and added that all seventy cars of the loaded east-bound freight train might burn.

Flames reached one car of naptha, but there was no explosion. Instead, the car burst a seam, sending out a steady stream of fire.

Superintendent M. M. Sison of the Frisco Eastern Division reported,

CALGARY MAN KEEPS RECORDS

Acting as Historian for Canadian Soldiers

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, Oct. 9 (CP)—Recording history in the making is the fascinating job of Maj. George Stanley of Calgary.

His job is the making and preserving of records of this war so that posterity will be able to learn just how Canadian soldiers fought in the second Great War.

Maj. Stanley says this "official history of the war" will be of inestimable value to future generations and that the writing of it is an important undertaking. Also, he adds, it is one phase of the war that Canadians neglected in 1914-18.

The only other officer in the name field, is Maj. C. P. Stacey, of Toronto, a former instructor at Princeton University. Those two will collaborate in telling the story of how Canadians carried out their role.

But Maj. Stanley did not join the forces as an intellectual. He joined as a fighting man, with the tough New Brunswick Rangers and won his commission as a reward for his years of service with the militia.

"Yes, but it doesn't do him any good then."

Flattening Bomb Raids Most Useful Reprisal

A small force of British Commandos, comprising ten officers and men, raided Sark, one of the Channel Islands, which lie at a right angle formed by the Brittany and Normandy coasts of France. The trip is about seventy-five miles by water from Portland Bill, on the south coast of England. In reporting this raid, which the Germans had published anywhere, the headquarters of British combined operations described it as "one of many such operations successfully and frequently carried out."

This small British force captured five German prisoners, who attempted to escape, and four of them had to be shot. The fifth was brought back to Britain and he told a tale of German methods which makes uncomfortable reading. Nine hundred men, British subjects all, between the ages of sixteen and seventy, were conscripted from the island of Guernsey last week for service in the German slave labor corps.

It is expected that more than this number will be taken from the island of Jersey. Sark is a tiny island, but eleven men have been warned that they will be sent to Germany. Two of them have committed suicide already rather than endure the appalling conditions which they anticipated. The Germans said that the British Commandos fired the hands of the prisoners, and otherwise subjected them to humiliating treatment. They threatened to take reprisals on the prisoners captured at Dieppe. Since four of the prisoners were shot and the fifth is in British custody, it is hard to know how the Germans obtained any evidence concerning the treatment meted out to their men, but it is not likely that the only prisoner actually removed from what after all was a scene of battle needed to be bound.

The question of the treatment of prisoners is still a rather thorny one, because the Germans have more of our prisoners than we have of theirs, for the time being. And this unhappy fact gives the enemy something of an edge when it comes to bargaining. What is more, the Germans do not care very much what happens to their men once they have been removed from the field of combat. So long as they are useful and can fight, the Germans look after their men, for they have found it profitable to do so. But when they can no longer be of service they are just so much human life, and the Nazis do not put much value on human life as such.

"Having mocked God, scoffed at religion of all kinds and embarked on a systematic policy of liquidating unfriendly populations, the Germans have neither belief in nor respect for man's immortal soul. British prisoners are mouths to feed, while German prisoners in British hands are just so much potentially useful material which has been taken away from them, and hence is of little value."

RAIDS ARE VALUABLE

This point of view makes it difficult to exact proper treatment for our own prisoners by the threat of reprisal on imprisoned Germans. There are other means to hand, however, which the Germans will understand and respect. We can always resort to the terror raid, picking out densely populated centres and using our unquestioned air superiority to flatten dwelling houses and take a high toll of civilian life.

Replying to the German threat to take reprisals on the prisoners captured at Dieppe, the British War Office said that if the Nazis carried out their proposal the British Government would have to consider its future action. The British mood now is such that the action would be quite ruthless.

Apart altogether from the incidental dispute over the treatment of prisoners, the Commandos are proving valuable. They represent an economical method of getting information, more by stealth than by force. One prisoner captured on each of a hundred raids directed at different points is just as valuable from the point of view of gaining information and examining clothing and equipment as a hundred prisoners captured in a large assault at one point and at a great sacrifice of life and prisoners lost to the enemy.

The Channel Islands offer interesting possibilities when considered in the light of a possible offensive against the French coast. Jersey and Guernsey in particular are given over mostly to pasture and market gardening, and presumably would offer excellent facilities for the establishment of air bases. Fighter aircraft based on Jersey could operate continually and conveniently over the mouth of the Loire in the Bay of Biscay, and areas of the French coast south of Cape Finisterre which are not so well fortified as the Channel coast of France.

CHANNEL ISLANDS IMPORTANT

The question is whether the Channel Islands would be any easier to capture than footholds on the French coast itself. Have the Germans fortified them and garrisoned them, or have they relied on their defence of the coast and the obstacle represented by the intervening water to keep hostile forces from exploiting the islands? This presumably is what the Commando raids were despatched to find out. It is clear, however, that, as the moment for attack comes closer, possession of the Channel Islands becomes more valuable to the British than to the Germans.

There is some comfort to be taken from the return of the Allied air forces to their work in Europe. But it is notable that the attacks have been on a relatively small scale. Raids involving a thousand planes are necessarily infrequent, but the use of raiding forces comprising 400 to 600 aircraft was a commonplace in the summer. The raids on Flensburg and Oenbrück employed between 180 and 200 aircraft.

Perhaps the American Army Air Corps will be operating on a larger scale from now on. If any significance can be attached to a warning issued by the B.B.C. on behalf of the United States Air Command advising persons in France who live near munition factories or war projects to change their residence. The B.B.C. warning was directed to all those who live within a mile radius of military targets. The warning should not, however, be taken as a reflection on American marksmanship, because daylight bombing operations of the Flying Fortresses have been characterized by great precision and accuracy.

The battle for Stalingrad has passed into another of its critical phases. This time the crisis threatens the Germans as much as the Russians. Marshal Timoshenko's relieving attack is steadily gaining ground, and the German commander is becoming apprehensive.

RUSSIAN PRESSURE HEAVY

Frantic efforts have been made to stem the slow but inexorable progress of the Russian forces rolling down the corridor between the Don and the Volga. The enemy has even pressed engineer battalions and road-building specialists into service as combatants, which is definitely a sign of weakness. It is rather like manning aircraft with fitters and fitters. When they go the aircraft cannot be serviced. It is a case of banking everything on a quick success, or resigning yourself to disaster.

The Germans are now in a terrible hurry. They have thrown more forces into the Central Caucasus and despatched alpine troops into the mountains bordering the Black Sea. So far, their gains have been negligible, but the threat is mounting. The eighty-day period which Oliver Lyttelton set as marking the crucial period of the years lighting has passed. But the British Supply Minister set the period a little too short.

We cannot say with assurance that the German Summer campaign has failed until about the second week in November. It is true, nevertheless, that the Germans can no longer be sure of retaining any objectives which they may reach from now on, because of the short time remaining before they are compelled to operate from permanent winter bases.

The accompanying map locates the targets of recent British air raids and shows the Channel Islands, one of which was the scene of a small Commando raid. It will be noted that the position of the islands is such that, were they used as fighter bases for the Royal Air Force, the range of British fighter aircraft and army co-operation machines would be extended over a large section of the Bay of Biscay.

carried out by the largest concentration of Allied heavy bombers yet to operate in one raid in the Southwest Pacific area.

"The attack penetrated a barrage of intense anti-aircraft fire and was delivered from a low altitude. A preliminary incendiary sweep by Allied medium units lit up the target area, starting many fires and exploding fuel dumps whose flames, visible for many miles, led our main attacking force to the target areas. Sixty tons of explosives and incendiaries were dropped, scoring direct hits on jetties, machine shops, supply dumps, barracks, anti-aircraft and searchlight positions. "Flare fires were started and remained visible for eighty miles. All our planes returned."

READY TO GIVE UP OLD RIGHTS

the declaration favoring the restoration of sovereign rights and self-government to all people. The announcement was timed to coincide with the eve of China's national day.

The execution of treaties by Britain and the United States will have little practical effect immediately because the territories in which they exercised their century-old powers were mostly in the coastal region now under Japanese control. But the effect on Chinese morale and the lift it should give to Chinese political cohesion under Chiang Kai-shek should be immediately felt.

OTHERS WILL FOLLOW

Britain has exercised more extensive powers in China in recent years than any other western power, including the United States. There are other western nations holding extra-territorial rights in China, particularly France, but the feeling here is that if Britain and the United States give up their powers, the others will follow voluntarily.

Great Britain, the State Department said in its announcement, "shares this Government's views and is taking similar action."

The United States' decision was communicated to Chinese Ambassador Wei Tao-ming by Welles who told the Ambassador that the United States plans to present a draft treaty to the Chinese Government for its consideration in the near future.

This treaty would provide for the immediate relinquishment of this country's extra-territorial rights in China and for the settlement of related questions.

CHINA'S DETERMINATION

The first paragraph of the Kuomintang Manifesto of 1924 proclaimed China's determination to free itself from the system of extra-territoriality in the following words: "All unequal treaties such as those providing for leased territories, extra-territorial privileges, foreign control of the customs tariff, and exercise of political authority on Chinese territories which impairs the sovereignty of the Chinese nation, should be abolished, and new treaties concluded on the basis of absolute equality and mutual respect for sovereign rights."

Achievement of "absolute equality" in the national struggle for abolition of extra-territorial rights and related privileges has been one of the aims of Nationalist China since the revolution which overthrew the Manchurian Dynasty in 1911. Tomorrow is the thirty-first anniversary of that revolution, which gave birth to the Chinese Republic.

Under the proposed treaty the United States would not be relinquishing any concessions or leased territories, since the United States did not possess any such privileges in China.

Great Britain on the other hand had concessions in such cities as Tientsin, Yingkow, Hangchow and Shanghai, and held as a leased territory Kowloon, on the Chinese mainland opposite Hongkong.

OTHER RIGHTS

Other rights possessed by foreign powers which have ranked in the Chinese national mind for many years included the right to maintain foreign troops on Chinese soil and foreign war vessels in China's inland waters.

China's Ambassador in a statement to the press promptly hailed the Anglo-American move as the beginning of a "new era in China's relations with the western powers."

Saying it would put an end to an "outdated and outworn system," Ambassador Wei predicted that the action "will not only give great moral encouragement to the Chinese people in their fight for freedom but constitutes definite assurance to all freedom-loving peoples of the world that the efforts of the United Nations are directed toward achieving political freedom everywhere and equality of rights among all nations."

in a dash across the open yard to the foot of a tower.

There one of the hostage guards, a captain, was forced to call out to the man in the tower to drop his gun into the yard. This the tower guard did, providing each of the desperadoes with a weapon.

GRAZED BY BULLET

At this point, one of them opened fire, the bullet grazing the head of the tower guard, H. Kross, stunning him and putting him out of action. A makeshift rope ladder was then produced and the four scaled the wall, taking a bunch of keys from the stunned Kross, letting themselves out through the tower stair and taking Kross' car, packed outside the wall.

The check-up later showed that St. Clair McNery, thirty-one, Edward Darlak, thirty-two, and Matthew Nelson, thirty, also were missing from the penitentiary.

More than 100 policemen, with orders to "shoot to kill," joined the hunt along principal highways.

TEN POSSIBLE AS CANDIDATES

Observers here suggested these men as possibilities:

Maj. M. A. MacPherson, of Regina, a "dark horse" candidate who appeared at the last minute at the national convention in 1938 and received little support.

Li-Cot George A. Drew, of Toronto, Ontario Conservative leader.

Dr. Sidney Smith, president of the University of Manitoba, who was prominent at the recent Port Hope, Ont., "unofficial" conference of Conservative laymen which set forth a statement of party aims and beliefs.

John Diefenbaker, Conservative M.P. for Lake Centre, Sask., and former Saskatchewan Conservative leader.

Howard Green, M.P., Vancouver South, and a leader among British Columbia Conservatives.

Joseph Harris, M.P., Toronto, Danforth, who was a candidate for the leadership at the 1938 convention.

Premier John Bracken, of Manitoba, Liberal-Progressive head of a coalition Government, who has indicated he is not interested in suggestions he become the party leader. (Informal sources said, however, that it is considered Mr. Bracken has not finally closed the door and might still be persuaded to allow his name to go before the convention.)

CREW GIVEN ALL CREDIT

Skipper Larsen of St. Roch Had Full Cooperation Of Men Aboard

SYDNEY, N.S., Oct. 9 (CP)—Sgt. Henry Larsen, skipper of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police patrol vessel St. Roch, now in Sydney after a history-making twenty-eight-month voyage through the Northwest Passage from Vancouver, disclosed some details of the odyssey today.

"It was hell at times and more than once we practically gave up hope of ever getting out," the skipper said, but he was reluctant to divulge many details of the long voyage in Arctic seas and ice.

Larsen paid high tribute to his crew. "None of us could have made the passage without full co-operation of the others," he said.

Making up the vessel's complement were Cpl. M. F. Foster, chief engineer, Vancouver; Constables W. G. Peters, second engineer, Winnipeg; F. S. Foster, mate, a native of England; W. J. Parry, cook, Victoria; P. G. Hunt, seaman, Victoria; E. C. Hadley, wireless operator, Weyburn, Sask.; and Jack Doyle, Campbellton, N.B.

The only thing to mar the trip, Sgt. Larsen said, was the death of Constable Albert Chartrand, thirty-six of Ottawa, who died from a heart attack and was buried at Pasley Bay. Members of the vessel erected a large stone cairn and cross at the grave on the shore overlooking the bay. His place was taken by Constable Doyle, of Campbellton, who was picked up at Pond-Inlet, where he had been stationed for three years.

BRIEF OUTLINE

In a brief outline of the trip, Sgt. Larsen said he and his crew had spent their first Christmas and Winter at Walker Bay after setting out from Vancouver. They touched at Demarcation Point, Point Barrow on Ballie Island, Coppermine, Cambridge Bay and retraced their course from Point Barrow in Queen Maud Gulf to Walker Bay after ice had hemmed them in for weeks.

Pushing on early in August, 1941, they reached Pasley Bay, remaining there for eleven months before the Arctic ice again broke up to make progress possible.

Fording of Franklin Strait after they left Pasley Bay on the last leg of the journey this year, Skipper Larsen described as the worst part of the journey. "We drifted back and forth for nearly a month before we finally got clear when a strong south wind split the ice," he said.

Sgt. Larsen told of seeing the wreckage of Sir John Ross' ship, the Victory, which was abandoned by the explorer at Victoria Harbor on the Gulf of Boothia in 1832.

"The iron from her hull proved to be a virtual gold mine for the Eskimos, who used it for making a variety of tools," he said.

Larsen described the natives as friendly all along the arduous route, but said they knew little of what went on outside their own frigid world.

No Inconvenience Experienced With Food Regulations

VANCOUVER, Oct. 9.—"Rationed but satisfied" would be a fitting slogan to apply to dining-car patrons of the Canadian National Railways.

S. & D. car department, Canadian National Railways, Vancouver, "With an approximate increase of over 30 per cent in the number of meals served as compared with last year, the ration regulations, which apply equally to railway dining-cars as to restaurants, have caused no inconvenience," he said. "As a matter of fact, it has been found that patrons have entered into the spirit of the regulations by co-operating to the fullest extent."

An indication of the upswing in the number of meals served is reflected in the figures for 1942, to July 31—approximately 2,000,000 as compared with the same period for 1941, approximately 1,500,000.

"Sugar bowls are no longer part of the dining tables' complement," Mr. Flett continued. "Patrons may, however, request sugar from the waiter for cereal, fruit dishes, etc. This is being portioned out to two level teaspoons for cereal or fruit and three cubes per cup of tea or coffee. Dining-car stewards now closely control the use of tea-bags, only one being allowed for each teapot at each meal."

"While the Government has not, as yet, curbed the supply of bacon through rationing, its request that Canadians decrease their normal consumption of this commodity has not failed in its mission," Mr. Flett concluded. "This is reflected in a substantial decrease in patrons' orders for their morning bacon."

"Summing up, it means that while the traveling public may have to stir their tea and coffee a little more and substitute other dishes for those they can no longer obtain, they may still enjoy their meals to the full."

One Man Missing And Another Dead In Casualty List

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (CP)—The Royal Canadian Navy today reported that Lieut. George Flax, of Dunsmuir, B.C., is missing on a ship, and that Ordinary Seaman Ian David Johnston, of Gibson's Landing, B.C., died October 6 in hospital at St. Hyacinthe, Que.

Lieut. Duncan, a member of the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve, whose father, George C. Duncan, lives at Bromes, was in command of a small Royal Navy vessel which did not return from an offensive patrol in enemy waters on the night of October 2, the navy said.

O.S. Johnston, also an R.C.N.V.R. member, had official number V3617. His mother, Mrs. Georgina Johnston, lives at R.R. No. 1, Gibson's Landing. This latest navy casualty list, 120th of the war, raised to 697 the total number of navy men officially reported dead and missing since the outbreak of hostilities.

Enemy Civilians Taken in Canada Land in Britain

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT October 9 (CP)—Military prisoners—civilians—said to have been rounded up in Canada and proceeding to Britain—called for overseas with the latest movement of troops from this Dominion. Safe arrival of the convoy was announced today.

These enemy civilians, several dozen strong, clambered aboard a transport here guarded by grim Polish troops. Nothing could be learned about them except that they had been caught in Canada. They were clad in nondescript civilian clothes, free from the usual prisoner-of-war markings, carrying make-shift bundles and seemed little worried about the trip across.

St. Roch Welcomed Home

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (CP)—Royal Canadian Mounted Police headquarters today welcomed home from the sea—and the ice—the "floating detachment" aboard the little schooner St. Roch, which arrived at North Sydney, N.S., after traversing from West to East the famous Northwest Passage across the top of the Dominion, a voyage of more than 10,000 miles.

An official statement on the history-making cruise showed that the crew of eight were engaged in ordinary Northern police duties throughout the two, and one-third years required for the journey.

Each Winter, the commander, Sgt. H. A. Larsen, of Victoria, chose a place where the St. Roch could freeze in. When the ship was stationary, dog teams were used to check on the observance of the Northwest Territories Game Act and the condition of the Eskimos.

The journey through the Northwest Passage was made so the ship could get heavier engines and a general refit for duty on the East Coast.

AIRMAN FROM SIDNEY TOPS STUDENT CLASS AT TRAINING SCHOOL

CALGARY, Oct. 9 (CP)—R. L. Schofield, of Sidney, B.C., topped a class of Royal Canadian Air Force students who completed training at No. 3 Service Flying Training School today.

Schofield worked as a sports reporter for The Prince Albert Daily Herald before going to England in 1939, where he was employed as a shipping clerk and later as a commercial traveler.

He returned to Canada at the outbreak of war and joined the R.C.A.F. as a member of the medical corps, becoming a corporal in that branch of the service before re-mustering to air crew.

British Columbia graduates are J. E. MacLeod, Vancouver; R. J. Schofield, Sidney; and A. Sutherland Brown, Victoria.

PASSER-BOYS STRIKE

VANCOUVER, Oct. 9 (CP)—Passer-boys at West Coast Shipbuilders, Ltd., here went out on strike today and forced riverboats in the yards to quit work shortly after a company spokesman said boys on the morning shift failed to report.

The newly formed River Passer-Boys' Union has been pressing for an increase in the forty-five-cent-an-hour wage but had declared itself opposed to strike action. Union officials declined to comment.

AIR FORCE RECRUITS

Among recruits recently enlisted in the Royal Canadian Air Force through the No. 1 Recruiting Centre, Vancouver, were the following Victorians: John Kingsberry, son of Mrs. J. Kingsberry, R.M.D. No. 4, and James Frederick Buckley, son of Mrs. J. E. Buckley, 20 Heleneck Road.

NOTICE TO MARINERS

NOW PRESUMED DEAD

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (CP)—The Royal Canadian Navy reported today that Able Seaman Roderick Roy Dewar, of Vancouver, previously reported missing, now is presumed dead as of July 9.

Dewar, a member of the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve, had official number A525. His mother, Mrs. Roderick Dewar, lives at 275 Seventh Ave. W., Vancouver.

MADE PENSION OFFICER

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (CP)—Dominion Command headquarters of the Canadian Legion today announced appointment of A. George Cracknell, forty-eight, of Amberburg, Ont., as an assistant chief pension officer of the Legion at Ottawa.

No Holiday for Shipbuilders in Victoria Plants

DESPITE the rumors circulating in Victoria during the past few days, owing possibly to a dispatch originating in Vancouver which stated that Vancouver shipyards would not operate on Monday next, Thanksgiving Day, and that the local yards had also decided to suspend ship construction, men of both the Victoria Machinery Depot and Yarrow's, Limited, will be on the job Monday, carrying on as usual.

Spokesmen for the shipyard workers here yesterday stated that no matter how the Mainland crews feel about laying-off on the statutory holiday next week, the work will go on, the majority of the men being pretty well agreed they will have something genuine to be thankful for if they put in the holiday advancing construction on badly needed vessels for Allied navies.

B.C. GAIN SMALL IN POTATO CROP

Increase in Canadian Harvest Nearly 10 Per Cent

Report Shows

OTTAWA, Oct. 9 (CP)—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in its first estimate of the production of "late crops," today placed the Canadian potato crop this year at 43,047,000 hundredweight, almost 4,000,000 hundredweight above the 1941 production of 39,052,000 hundredweight.

Other production estimates in today's crop report were: Commercial sugar beets, 701,000 tons, compared with 711,700 in 1941; turnips, man-golds, etc., 31,658,000 hundredweight, compared with 31,554,000; fodder corn, 4,323,600 tons, compared with 4,153,800; alfalfa, 3,935,000 tons, compared with 2,726,800.

Production of late grains was estimated as follows (1941 figures in brackets): Mixed grain, 64,620,000 bushels (48,658,000); corn for husking, 13,626,000 bushels (13,362,000).

The potato estimate of 43,047,000 hundredweight represents the highest production for the Dominion since 1934, when a crop of 48,055,000 hundredweight was harvested.

BEST IN YEARS

Saskatchewan and Alberta are digging the best potato crops in many years. The British Columbia crop is practically unchanged from a year ago.

A 10 per cent reduction in sugar beet acreage was almost offset by a 10 per cent increase in yield.

The production of potatoes this year was from 505,900 acres compared with 507,100 acres in 1941; yields per acre of 85 cwt. and 77 cwt. respectively.

By provinces the production in hundredweight is estimated as follows (1941 figures in brackets): Prince Edward Island, 4,773,000 (3,192,000); Nova Scotia, 2,456,000 (1,587,000); N.B., Brunswick, 45,414,000 (3,735,000); Quebec, 10,990,000 (11,475,000); Ontario, 7,076,000 (7,579,000); Manitoba, 2,610,000 (3,150,000); Saskatchewan, 4,485,000 (2,585,000); Alberta, 2,708,000 (1,950,000); British Columbia, 1,485,000 (1,498,000).

Command Issues Names of Flyers Killed in Crash

HALIFAX, Oct. 9 (CP)—Names of six of the seven airmen killed yesterday when an aircraft from the R.A.F. base at Greenwood, N.S., plummeted into the Bay of Fundy, were released today by Eastern Air Command officials. Name of the seventh airman was withheld pending notification of next-of-kin.

Pilot of the plane that crashed into the waters of the bay a scant two miles from the fishing village of St. George, N.S., was P.O. J. G. McFarlane, Calgary.

With P.O. McFarlane on the training flight were two other officers-instructors: P.O. G. W. Knowles, Sarnia, Ont., and P.O. R. Woodman, Digby County, N.S.

Student airmen in the plane at the time of the fatal plunge included Sgt. B. Desmarais, St. Boniface, Man.; Sgt. D. W. Armstrong, Montreal; and Sgt. R. O. Barrett, Kings County, N.S.

No other details of the crash were revealed and no possible cause of the crash was told, though an official investigation is under way.

"KEEP YOUR POWDER DRY"

Mohammed used to exhort his followers.

"Put your trust in God, but tie your camel."

Cremwell, equally pious, never let reliance upon spiritual strength dull his earthly appreciation of the handiness of the tools of war being ever-ready.

"Put your trust in God," he too, advised his soldiers while crossing a stream, "but mind to keep your powder dry."

Businesslike advice in his lubber-lent times, it is more than ever what any doctor would order today.

(By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

"SOME OF YOU PEDESTRIANS WALK ABOUT AS IF YOU'D BOUGHT THE STREETS."

Yes, and some of you motorists drive about as if you'd paid for your cars!

How It Started

General Peakes, who returned recently from overseas, where he commanded a Canadian division, spoke briefly. He noted the opportunity offered at the training centre for the exchange of ideas and stressed the value of the experience to the officer cadres.

MAIN QUALIFICATION

It asked to name on characteristics which should be distinctive with them, he said, it would be enthusiasm and keenness for their troops and their work.

"I would like you to remember that I am here as a general because I have been enthusiastic about my work and my troops, and I hope you will show the same enthusiasm."

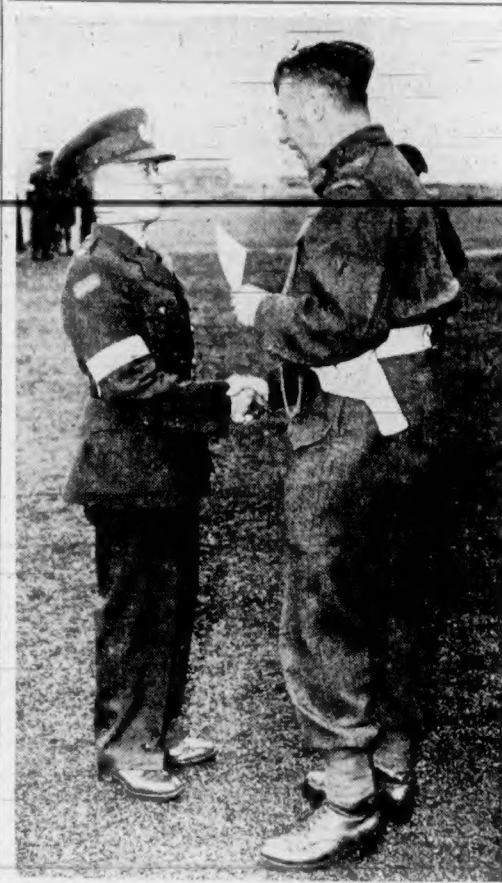

The speaker recalled the days of the first Great War and receiving his commission in France. He compared the present system of officer training centres with the old, when men were chosen from the ranks and "next day found themselves in the difficult position of having to command their troops."

In his farewell to the class, Gen. Peakes wished the graduates good fortune and success in their military career. From Gordon Head they leave for advanced training centres.

RESTITUTE

Scene, landing stage, business settlement, in a—hurry, to dock water. "See here, my man, do you want to earn a half-a-crown?" "Looser. 'Don't I just, sir?'" "Very well; stand on this spot for half an hour and wave this handkerchief as hard as ever you can. My wife is off to America with this steamer, and she'd expect me to stand for that time waving at her. She's a bit short-sighted, and she'll never know the difference."

Chinese Becomes Officer

Confidence in New Officers Expressed

Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes Convinced Young Canadians Will Conquer All Obstacles—Many Attend Gordon Head Graduation Ceremony

CONFIDENCE in Canada's junior officers and a conviction they will surmount all obstacles in leading their men to victory were expressed by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., G.O.C.-in-Chief, Pacific Command, yesterday.

In an address before the graduating class at Gordon Head Officers' Training Centre, and a large gathering of relatives, friends and undergraduates, Gen. Pearkes emphasized the magnitude of the task lying ahead.

"You have a terribly difficult job lying ahead of you," he told the graduates. "But I am sure you young men of Canada will rise above all difficulties in your way and lead your men to victory."

LESS FORMALITY

The graduating ceremony, at which 119 officer cadets received their certificates from the officer commanding, followed in the main the same similar functions that have taken place at the centre in the last year, but under Gen. Pearkes the procedure was more informal.

While previous speakers had addressed the class from the platform, the general, who wore battle dress, remained on the parade grounds after his inspection and gave out the certificates there. He returned the salute of the first five or six graduates and then dispensed with the formality, preferring a friendly word with them instead.

The general's inspection of the graduating class was close and unhurried, and apparently satisfactory. It lasted for about fifteen minutes and during that time the band of the training centre played.

General Pearkes, who returned recently from overseas, where he commanded a Canadian division, spoke briefly. He noted the opportunity offered at the training centre for the exchange of ideas and stressed the value of the experience to the officer cadres.

"I would like you to remember that I am here as a general because I have been enthusiastic about my work and my troops, and I hope you will show the same enthusiasm."

The speaker recalled the days of the first Great War and receiving his commission in France. He compared the present system of officer training centres with the old, when men were chosen from the ranks and "next day found themselves in the difficult position of having to command their troops."

In his farewell to the class, Gen. Peakes wished the graduates good fortune and success in their military career. From Gordon Head they leave for advanced training centres.

Indians, are loyal to Canada and, if necessary, are ready to lay down our lives in defence of this country against aggression; that a petition be sent requesting that we be granted our long-cherished and legitimate overdue citizenship rights in British Columbia; that some of our young men have been conscripted or called for military service recently, and in view of this fact that a protest be lodged with the Minister of Defence, or other proper authority, objecting to the calling of our people for compulsory military service without giving our people the rights of citizenship in British Columbia."

The East Indians point out that granting of the franchise to them will have, in some measure, a soothing effect on the present political unrest in India. A communication from the Prime Minister of Canada to the Viceroy of India, the memorial says, stating that the franchise had been granted here, would have "no little effect on the 40,000,000 voters of India," many of whom reside in the Punjab, from where British Columbia East Indians came.

The Provincial Elections Act says Chinese, Japanese, Hindus and Indians may not vote in provincial elections.

NERVES, AGAIN?

The Nazi outbreak over prisoners and "handcuffs" supplies, once again, an indication as to the extremely tender and delicate state of nerves on the part of the enemy. Men who have killed, tortured and literally hanged their way through Europe, and who have thrown hundreds of thousands of lives into the bath of blood before Stalingrad, have suddenly become very squeamish about a fable.

The fable is that German prisoners taken by the British at Dieppe were handcuffed. That, of course, would be against the rules laid down between nations at Geneva for the conduct of a war. It is Great Britain, however, who has kept to the rules of warfare; and it is Germany that has broken every rule in the conflict, beginning with attack without any declaration of war.

There is, of course, no truth in the Nazi assertion. German prisoners at Dieppe may have been blindfolded, but they were not handcuffed. For the most part, they were glad to get out of that action, and many were equally glad to have finished with the whole war. Publication of the real facts of Dieppe show that most of the prisoners taken there were British, and not German. Here, then, was a fine occasion for Nazi "frightfulness"; nor has it been overlooked.

The trumped-up charges show upon what thin ground the Nazi mentality is now standing, and what desperate devices must be taken for the benefit of propaganda on the Reich's home front. It looks as if Berlin has had a bad case of "Dieppe nerves." And when nerves are injured, they sing out.

PRICES NOT PEGGED

Whatever claims are made to the contrary, food prices in Canada have risen a long way in the last three years; as a comparison with prices obtained in October, 1939, will show. Eggs, butter, milk, meats and fish, essentials in any normal household, have risen sharply, even though their producers complain that they are not getting much of the benefit, by reason of repeated handling, middlemen, and increased labor cost.

Three years ago, on October 11, 1939, to be exact, Victoria wholesale prices for eggs were quoted at 34 cents a dozen for Grade "A" large, and 30 cents by Government inspection standard. Quotations this week in the city were 47 and 43, respectively. The retail spread, of course, is added on top of that.

In the retail city market on that date three years ago, potatoes were selling at 12 pounds for 25 cents; red salmon at 28 cents per pound; fresh cod at 2 pounds for 25 cents; chicken and turkey at 37 cents per pound. Beef prices then would hardly be recognized today. Rib roasts sold for 20 cents per pound. Round steak with 25 cents per pound, retail, and hamburger steak 15 cents per pound. Lamb sold for 22 cents per pound in choice cuts, and pork at the same figure.

Comparison with today's prices will show the actual advance in the price range within the intervening period. Announcement this week that the Wartime Prices and Trade Board had authorized a further increase in beef prices, wholesale and retail, indicates that the trend is still upward, whether the consumers like it or not. It is idle to claim that food prices have been pegged, when they have not.

PERSONALITY OF HERR HITLER

It may be possible to discover something of the personality of a man by listening to his speeches. It is at least a way of recognizing mental reactions, and when that listening is associated with a study of the man's writings, often pursued, there ought to be some understanding of a man's character. Dr. William Brown is styled an "eminent psychologist" and he has been studying Herr Hitler. He speaks German fluently. He has read Mein Kampf over and over again. He has listened to all Herr Hitler's broadcast speeches and followed them in the original; therefore, he knows every tone and inflection of the Fuehrer's voice and his hysterical tendency. What he has perceived in his study is the extent to which Herr Hitler concentrates on one thing at a time to the exclusion of everything else, and "when he moves on to the next thing he seems to forget completely what he has previously said, and so, through relative mental dissociation, he is inconsistent, but apparently does not perceive the inconsistency."

Dr. Brown's study of Herr Hitler goes somewhat further. He records his impressions of an interview with the late Mr. Neville Chamberlain after the latter's visits to Berchtesgaden-Godesberg and Munich. He suggested to the former British Prime Minister that Herr Hitler might be both hysterical and paranoid. Mr. Chamberlain asked what was meant by hysterical, and when he was told the construction was admitted, "That is so," said Mr. Chamberlain. "When Hitler is talking it is just as if he had blinkers on. He is concentrating on one thing completely, earnestly and genuinely, and a little later he is talking about something else, and again he is quite earnest and genuine, but what he says now is in complete contradiction to what he said about five minutes before." Dr. Brown, from his estimate of Herr Hitler, explains what he means by paranoid as the more correct term for many mental attitudes which are labeled by journalists and others as symptoms of an "inferiority complex." He dislikes this term and believes that paranoid should be used in many cases instead of "inferiority complex." A person suffering from an inferiority complex, says Dr. Brown, "in the only sense in which we can scientifically use the term, is a person who has come inferiority dating back to his early years, which is handicapping him, and which he does not like to admit to himself. He tries to hide it from himself as well as from others."

Dr. Brown believes that Herr Hitler is an abnormal individual but that, as a leader, he is in part the creation of his followers. "He expresses," says Dr. Brown, "to a large extent the German mind. . . . The point is that it is not a question of one erratic and non-dependable individual; it is a question of interaction, and mutual stimulus, or something bigger than the individual—not flesh and blood, but principalities and powers." When we have such a personality at the head of a nation, supported by a ruthless junta, it is indeed a stroke of cruel ill fortune for the world. The successive scenes in the European drama, in the light they have thrown on the character of Hitler, have shown how great was the task which Mr. Neville Chamberlain accomplished at Berchtesgaden, Godesberg and Munich. He probably prevented the outbreak of war which to rearm and become united in warlike determination to resist aggression."

VETERANS PRAISED

Veterans of the last war, who thrilled to the daring and stubborn courage of Canadians of a younger generation under heavy odds and a galling cross-fire at Dieppe, received a little commendation for themselves this week, when a Canadian army officer on the West Coast spoke out, but not out of turn Captain R. B. Young, of North Bay, Ontario, had this to say of a veterans' guard under his command:

"They are a grand lot. They know what to do, and when to do it. On another score, I have every good reason to be proud of them. There has not been so much as a minor offence by any member of this unit since we came up here; and that is saying a lot, where depression breeds easily in the isolation of the Northland."

That was well said. It will coincide with what many people in this country have seen, and know, of the veterans of 1914-18, who made up the first complete corps ever to go overseas from Canada. Here they fought, and triumphed, has become part of the history of this land. Today, moreover, there is the knowledge, certain and sure, that their successors are made of just the same stuff. Dieppe showed that.

Beyond the years of active campaigning now, veterans are serving in all three armed services of Canada. Mostly, they have served silently; doing what they could, proud to be in uniform again, and content that younger, more highly trained and capable young men are now their leaders. Praise will not turn their heads; but it will cement that good comradeship between the young and the not-so-young, which is a valid part of Canada under arms. Capt. R. B. Young has said something that very much needed to be said. His was an open, manly statement.

PENICILLIN

It is thirteen years since the mould known as Penicillium Notatum was discovered but so far it does not seem to have been applied widely to the conquest of disease although it is known that it possesses strong anti-bacterial powers. The Times, London, in a recent article, says that "a preparation of penicillin has been found to inhibit the growth of staphylococci completely in a dilution of 1 in 25,000,000 and partially in a dilution of 1 in 100,000,000." The drug is described as harmless. The Lancet says of it that "in view of its potentialities, methods for producing penicillin on a large scale should be developed as quickly as possible."

It is claimed for this drug that it is active against certain organisms, "which have resisted the influence of the sulphonamides." At present "organisms resistant to the sulphonamides are for the most part beyond the reach of treatment." Then The Times says of this drug: "In any case penicillin is less toxic than the least toxic of the sulphonamides and seems to act without reference to the number of bacteria present. Efforts are now being made to obtain the active principle of the drug in crystalline form. . . . since, as The Lancet points out. . . . It is not yet certain that the maximum degree of purity has been achieved. There are, however, many difficulties in the way and further hopes of obtaining a synthetic product are not very bright. This is perhaps immaterial seeing that the mould itself is available."

S.P.C.A. TAG DAY

Man's treatment of animals is an evidence of his humane nature. His regard for their welfare is a part of character, of that character which is never vitiated by cruelty towards any living thing, which regards creation as a whole and finds it good. It is to inculcate such a principle in the human mind that the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals exists. It is not an organization that trusts to precept alone; it performs humane deeds on behalf of the lower species, especially those that cannot protect themselves. It is the guardian against man's inhumanity to animals and in its task perhaps it sounds the warning, as well, against man's inhumanity to man.

Today the local branch of S.P.C.A. is holding a tag day. In the multifarious demands for popular subscription the cause it espouses should not be forgotten; far from it, for the appeal is to the heart of mankind, even to Christian charity itself. He who can regard the lower creation as a matter of humane protection cannot fail to entertain a humane outlook on man's relationship with man. Until that outlook is secured man will war with man. The S.P.C.A., in its quiet, unobtrusive way, is pointing the way to peace in human society. Those who support that organization approve this principle.

CORVETTE

A little ship, pump as a setting hen, Battering her way through waves as grey as steel, Her stout nose lifting to the wind and spray, She keeps a steady course—no even keel.

And rides the darkness out with careful ease, At home amid the danger of the seas, She scuttles in and out among the ships Like a young mother mindful of her own. While the great convoy plunges through the seas, She scouts ahead, blazing the trail alone. Keeping a watchful eye for submarines That lurk along the grey Atlantic lanes.

She asks no glory of the merchant fleet— Not the right to serve in willing thrall, Her stout heart beats below the icy decks In steady rhythm to the rise and fall. Or the great tides that beat her tiny hull— Part of the Fleet, stalwart . . . invincible.

—Edna Jacques.

FAITH AND MORALS

Neither is this a matter to be deferred till a more convenient time of peace and leisure; because a reformation in men's faith and morals is the best natural as well as religious means to bring the war to a good conclusion. For if men in trust performed their duty for conscience sake, affairs would not suffer through fraud, falsehood, and neglect, as they now perpetually do. And if they believed a God and his providence, and acted accordingly, they might reasonably hope for his divine assistance in so just a cause as ours.—Jonathan Swift: "A Project for the Advancement of Religion and the Reformation of Manners" (sermon), 1709.

THE SEA OF NO NAME (2)

Mountains are islands in the cubic air-ocean, in the Sea of No Name. Mountain ranges are unfriendly reefs, making their own weather, and offering never a lee shore. By day they can be seen and avoided; by night they are in the mind of every navigator in his chart room as a stubborn, persistent fact. Up to 18,000 feet and beyond volcanic cones, mountain ranges, table-lands and hills are to the airplane what shoals are to a vessel at sea. Every body knows that, yet one has to fly to have the knowledge burned into the brain. Height, then, in sea-rooms in the air. Fortunately it is easily attained, and today altitudes up to 40,000 feet present no insuperable difficulties to man.

Yet mountain ranges are a very rare occurrence on the Earth's crust. One might number the principal ranges of the world on the fingers of two hands; one or two to a continent, as a rule. So that the air, for practical purposes, is almost without physical obstruction. No other ocean, in fact, has such a clear sweep and over so wide a range. At the altitude of 10,000 feet, a plane could be piloted over by far the greater part of the entire surface of the globe; having left behind most of the works of man, all but an insignificant fraction of his structures, and nearly everything that was not laid down in the dawn of time itself. Vasco da Gama, Magellan, and Cook would have welcomed an ocean such as that!

Let us take the means of flight as understood. We have been watching it for some thirty-six years, fully controllable, navigational flight; no longer the sport of chance winds or unpredictable weather. Rather, let us look next at those factors which withdraw the Sea of No Name from our grasp; now here, now there, and then over wide, circular areas. Most often it is fog, the visually impenetrable blanket which cuts a plane off from its only lee shore, the surface of the earth itself, be it land or water. We are learning how to overcome fog by wireless, and some day planes will dock in the thickest fog with little real difficulty as steamers groping their way towards land with whistle-signals. Yet, save seasonally, fog itself is rare; and for nine months of the year the great bulk of the air ocean knows it not. Like mountains, which cannot be moved, there may always be a few fog-bound coasts in the Sea of No Name; but we shall know more about that by and by. For its greater part, however, the cubic air-ocean is in the net grasp of the pilot, and he is in the grip of the limitations of human sight, and that slight tremendously enlarged by wireless and radio beacon.

More various, more disturbing in its many changing manifestations, is that which we call "the weather," of which fog is only one slight symptom. Weather, we know now comes from many quarters; while there remains the suspicion at least that it is made "on top." The rotation of this planet on its axis, its temperatures at the equator and both poles, its very position on its orbit around the sun, the conjunction of oceans with continents, even the minor elevation of a hill in a forgotten valley, all contribute to what we call "the weather." The weather concerns the aerial navigator, because it brings fog and moves clouds; it makes rain, sleet or snow; it causes both relatively high, and tremendously low temperatures in the Sea of No Name. Great, circular storms are born with small beginnings, sweep over a wide track of land and water for hundreds of miles, only to lessen, lose force and die out. Their dark cones can be seen high in the air, like a young girl waiting tirelessly in a black net dress. It is the fountains of the dress that make trouble for us on the ground, but, high in the air, the plane may fly around her tip-tilted black hat with only a slight dread; and, higher still, may leave the lady of the storm far below, harmless and beautiful. There are "cold fronts" and "warm fronts," great, moving masses of air, sharp vertical winds, and other forces which we are slowly learning to identify and name.

Some things we do not as yet know. The relation of sea currents to air currents, the prevailing "trade" winds of the cubic air-ocean, the relationship of the upper and the nether regions of navigable air levels, one to the other, and a few other matters will all have to have some work done upon them. We hold the suggested answers, but these are still largely subject to verification, or to change. Beyond that, there is still the sun and his cycles, our own pale moon and his phases, electro-magnetic forces only lightly charted as such, and perhaps a great deal more our knowledge. But this we do know above the lower levels of the cubic air ocean there are mountain-free, storm-free, fog-free and weather-free zones in which man may fly when and where he pleases, even to the ends of the known Earth. So, within these few limitations, what we are discussing is a nearly limitless air ocean, which encircles every yard of this planet from its equator to the poles. It is man's last and largest ocean, the Sea of No Name.

From an article on the synthetic rubber situation in Look by E. Burton Heath: "Japanese conquests in the Pacific deprived the United States of 98 per cent of the 700,000 long tons of raw rubber that was being used before the war. The sum of $600,000,000 has been allocated to finance plants in which to make 870,000 tons of synthetic rubber per year. Another 321,000 tons are being financed by the rubber industry, and 30,000 tons more by Canada. It will be 1944 before the new synthetic rubber industry is producing at the rate of 870,000 tons per year. The stock pile, plus scrap rubber, must be spread out to make up the deficits each year." . . . From the Seattle Real Estate Board Bulletin: "The army and navy require 600,000 typewriters at once, which must be secured from business and personal sources since manufacture of machines has stopped. The War Production Board urgently needs standard machine-manufactured since January, 1935, no portables." . . . From Canadian Finance, published at Toronto: "It is being predicted that if the war continues much longer, and if casualties increase, life insurance premiums will be raised. In some cases premium rates, in fact, already have been raised. Three major factors involved in calculating insurance premiums are the rate of mortality, rate of interest that can be earned, and the rate of expense. The first two factors determine the amount of the net premium. . . . Bill, the Broker Street barber, listened with boredom at breakfast time while his wife discoursed on the new neighbors. They are a most devoted couple. When he leaves for his office in the morning, he always stops at the gate and waves her a kiss or two. Why don't you do that?" Bill's wife inquired. "I don't even know her yet," Bill laughed as he ducked under the table.

Improvement in Pacific. In New Guinea the Australians have advanced and the Japanese withdrawn somewhat surprisingly without offering serious resistance. This shows clearly they found an attack on Port Moresby with conventional communications to be impracticable. What their intentions now are remains a matter for speculation.

This Week of War

By MAJ.-GEN. SIR CHARLES GWYNNE

LONDON, Oct. 9 (CP).—After several days of intensified attacks on Stalingrad a Berlin military spokesman now has suggested infantry attacks against the city are being discontinued and that the assault will be confined to dive-bombing and heavy artillery bombardments. This is a strange admission as a sequel to Hitler's speech in which he captured the city was promised as to what extent a change of policy is being brought about.

It is possible that German losses have been so great as to force them to consider the results of their failure; it is still more likely that the German military spokesman was attempting to soften anxiety which must be felt at home over the continued holdup of German forces before the gallant city.

In Egypt except for one local attack to improve the British position the lull continues; air attacks on Malta have not been heavy and Allied submarines have had considerable successes in attacks on Marshal Rommel's communications.

Improvement in Pacific. In New Guinea the Australians have advanced and the Japanese withdrawn somewhat surprisingly without offering serious resistance. This shows clearly they found an attack on Port Moresby with conventional communications to be impracticable. What their intentions now are remains a matter for speculation.

"THAT SECOND FRONT"

Sir—Mr. C. M. Cadwallader, in his letter in your today's paper, seems to be very perturbed over the praise and the bouquets that are being showered upon Russia, but he can rest assured that the Russians are not in the least concerned about compliments or bouquets. We, the United Nations, are fighting, or waiting to fight, on six fronts, it is true, but Russia is fighting on her over-2000-mile front, quite alone. To what "favor" does Mr. Cadwallader allude that Russia "should return it?"

Surely we all know how heroic were the defenders at Hongkong, Singapore, etc. If I remember correctly, Mr. Editor, the greatest of praise was given to those men and none could have been too great, but it is a pity that more criticism was not given to the incompetence of the generals, etc., that led to these appalling catastrophes. Had Joseph Stalin been able to spare us one or two of his peasant generals the catastrophes might have been turned into victories.

Not long ago Bernard Shaw said that the "two most brilliant men alive today are Joseph Stalin and Franklin Roosevelt." Stalin knows well that the Japanese are and apparently Mr. Cadwallader knows very little about Finland. Does he realize that seventy per cent of the Finns are on the side of Russia? Has he forgotten how General Mannerheim slaughtered thousands of the Finnish people because they wanted to get rid of the Nazi yoke?

Had Hitler not made the mistake of thinking that, through his fifth column traitors, he could have conquered Russia as easily as the other European countries he is dominating and enslaving, it is more than certain that he would have invaded the British Isles and the question is: could they have put up the long and magnificent fight that the Russians have done and are doing; no wonder they are in urgent need of "tanks, guns, planes, food, etc."

SHORTAGE OF WOOD

Sir—We are told that an acute shortage of fir wood exists in Victoria. If this is so will someone kindly explain why so much of it—hundreds of cords—finds its way to the many greenhouses on the Island.

It seems hardly the right thing at this time to use so much of this good wood for the purpose of growing flowers, tomatoes, and cucumbers for the few, if by doing so it means discomfort and suffering for the many, especially children and old people, owing to lack of adequate supply of wood.

Let us put "first things first"—Do we want stores full of pretty flowers or hospitals full of sick children?

R.M.D. 3, Victoria, B.C. Sept. 7, 1942.

STATUTORY HOLIDAYS

Sir—It seems to me there is a good deal of exaggerated nonsense written about the proposed temporary deletion of holidays, of which there are certainly too many in this country particularly as the Wednesday half-holiday is now included. A temporary measure taken for war purposes should not cause such opposition. There are probably not 5 per cent of the public who care as much about the origin of a holiday as they do for the holiday itself, and one must admit that a Monday is a more convenient and better liked holiday than a day in the middle of the week. After all, Empire Day really originated as the Queen's birthday, and sovereigns' birthdays were never observed as public holidays in the Old Country.

As for Remembrance Day, if it is not a holiday, why keep it as such at the dull and most dismal time of the year? The clergy would no doubt be glad to hold services for prayer in the evening for all who wished to commemorate the day, and parades seem to be out of place at the present time. England cut out its Cenotaph service last year in the interests of the living. Pre-

PUBLICITY THAT IS RECORD OF WASTE

(From The Printed Word)

Publicity that has attended the resignation of G. Herbert Lash as Director of Public Information is evidence of the well-merited esteem in which he is held by the newspaper fraternity. Failures of the public, information service, probably were not Mr. Lash's fault, except in so far as he was unable to obtain from the Government itself the requisite authority for handling the job in a sensible, broad and economical fashion. It was too much to expect that Mr. Lash would have such authority. He was seconded to the job from another department of government—the Canadian National Railways, and so was in position to be pushed around by other Government employees of higher, if not by those of equal rank.

Charles Vining, chairman of a new board of wartime information, has an advantage in that he is a volunteer from private industry and it might be guessed that, before he accepted such an onerous and generally thankless job, he made certain stipulations. Those stipulations would be that he would have authority to boss the job as long as he holds it. And bossing will not only involve keeping the public of this and other countries properly informed as to Canada's part in the war but preserving the Government from over-doing over-emphasizing and sugar-coating the facts. The many streams of publicity from Ottawa are now running full. It can be hoped that Mr. Vining will be able to shut off all but one stream and that one stream be not so full that it overflows the banks of public credulity or the wastepaper baskets of editors.

In managing a stream of publicity with reduced volume, it is fancied that Mr. Vining will be able to save a substantial sum of money, and also—what may be more important—much in the way of copper, electrolytes and stereotypes (which are printing plates to the uninitiated).

Examples of waste in the public information service can be cited ad infinitum by any editor one meets. The other day in an Ontario town, one editor displayed a stack of unopened envelopes from Ottawa. The top one was revealed to contain matrices of 158 cap badges used in the Canadian armed forces. At the most, this editor would use only one or two—the local regiment's. At least 155 of these "mats" would be wasted. Were the whole lot sent to 700 or 800 newspapers? What was the cost of preparation—drawing, etching, stereotypes and mats? Perhaps the Government would get a reduced rate. Or would it? At the standard price prevailing in Toronto or Montreal, the parceling alone, not counting contents or shipping charges, would be 20 cents each. The same editor reports that in one recent mail he received two separate envelopes from Ottawa. One contained an article which would take up eight columns of space; the other would take three and a half columns of space. If the publicity men at Ottawa responsible for such monstrosities ever had any practical experience they must have lost all sense of proportion since joining the war effort.

Mr. Vining will need to act like a hard-boiled city editor who has just had some of his previous space taken away from him by the advertising department. If he succeeds in so acting, the result—meaning the proper telling of the story—will be better than at present. And the taxpayer may save some money.

On this continent, newspapermen with long memories still say that the best newspaper of its day was the old New York Sun, which was limited to four pages. And reports from Britain are that the paper shortage in that country—which has reduced most papers to four pages—has made better papers.

Will Curtail Paper Output

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP).

Parallel actions by the Canadian and United States Governments to curtail production of paper, including newspaper, were predicted for the near future, today by informed Government officials.

A War Production Board order cutting the rate of United States paper production may be issued this week, it was said by a W.P.B. source who cannot be quoted by name. Extent of the proposed curtailment was not announced but this official said he did not believe it would be "very serious" although it might be the forerunner of more extensive slashes to come.

The question of when and when not to raise partner's trump is a baffling one to all types of players. Admittedly, there are many hands that are "right on the line" and where the outcome depends on a successful guess, but in most cases the correct decision can be made on a basis of pure logic. Pass Pass

When this hand actually occurred in a prominent New York club, the North player was severely criticized by both opponents and a gallery of knights for giving what they termed a "highly optimistic raise."

The fact that the three no trump contract was hardly fulfilled seemed to be overlooked by this body of critics.

Actually, North's raise was 100 per cent correct and did not entail any considerable amount of optimism. Indeed, failure to raise would have been downright cowardly. Let's analyze:

North had passed originally with two honor tricks. South had bid North's weakest suit. Then, despite the fact that North's spade response, after his original pass, was in no sense forcing on South, the latter had elected to keep the bidding open with one no trump. Thus, it was fair to assume that South did not have an absolute minimum. As to how far over a minimum his hand really was, there was only one way to find out and that was for North to keep the bidding open. How else to keep it open except with the no trump raise?

I have an idea that the players who criticized North's action completely overlooked the fact that besides spade and diamond strength, North also had values in the club suit. It is interesting to note that it was this very holding—four clubs to the 10 spot, in connection with South's A-9-2—that prevented the opponents from attacking clubs and taking more than two tricks in that suit. It is true that a four card suit headed by a 10 is of little or no potential value at a suit contract, but at no trump such subtle factors may have great importance.

Many New Tops
For Year Made
On Wall Street

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP).—Many stocks made new tops for the year or longer in today's market on the second million-share session of 1942 but asserted leaders encountered sizable profit taking and finished under water.

Overnight buying orders and short covering speeded up the list at the start. There were subsequent slow-downs but many large blocks helped put turnover at 1,054,470 shares against 1,091,560 yesterday, which was a top figure since last December 31. The Associated Press average of sixty stocks was up 3 of a point at 39.6, a new peak since December 8. It was another of the broadest markets in months, 866 individual issues being traded. Of these 403 were up, 235 down and twenty-eight unchanged.

Chrysler, down most of the day, put on a belated climb and ended up a point at 65 3/4, best price for the year. Others in the new high division were N.Y. Central, Pennsylvania, General Motors, General Electric and Standard Oil (N.J.).

Utilities generally made scant progress although American Telephone held an advance of 1-1/8 at 126 1/8.

Selling dried up in the gold mines. In arrears were U.S. Steel, Bethlehem, Southern Pacific, American Can, International Harvester, Goodyear, U.S. Rubber, Anacosta and Boeing.

WHAT'S DOING ON THE LOCAL RETAIL
PRODUCE MARKET

An increase of twenty-five cents a case in the wholesale price of oranges during the last week has brought the orange market practically to its peak, according to wholesalers. It has now reached the basis of the ceiling price in the United States, and officials do not expect any more advances.

The first carload of Jonathan apples from the Okanagan is due today, and the price will be low, as it is for the entire apple crop this year. A shipment of McIntosh Red apples arrived on the row yesterday, while there will be no bananas until next Friday, when a consignment is due from Los Angeles. Seedless grapes have advanced fifteen cents a crate, an indication they will be finished in two or three weeks.

Wholesalers predict a seasonal advance in the price of hot-house tomatoes, also a rise in the onion market, due to the large demand and the fact that the present price of onions is considerably below the ceiling. Arrivals on vegetable row yesterday included Ashcroft potatoes.

FINED $500 FOR
HOARDING SUGAR

CALGARY, Oct. 9 (CP).—Convicted on two charges of hoarding sugar, Frederick Arthur Schultz, Calgary oil man, was fined $500 and costs of $19.50 by Magistrate D. C. Sinclair today.

On a charge of acquiring a greater amount of sugar than two weeks' ration for himself and members of his household Schultz was fined $450 and costs with the alternative of two months' imprisonment, and for acquiring an amount of sugar beyond reasonable requirements a fine of $50 and costs of ten days in jail.

DEFENDERS SMASH
GERMAN ASSAULTS

grad, the Russians reported that German infantry supported by thirty tanks had ousted the Red Army from two populated places after losing ten of their tanks and suffering heavy casualties.

On the Upper Don River in the Voronezh area the Russians also said one company of Hungarian infantry had crossed to the east bank of the river. Eighty Hungarians were killed and ten taken prisoner in that action, the communique said.

BEAT OFF ATTACKS

In the mid-Caucasian area of Moudok the Russians said their troops still were beating off German attacks. The Nazis lost 300 men and ten ammunition trucks in the battle there yesterday, it was said.

Russian guerrillas already are working behind German lines in this area on the Terek River, the communique said in telling how one detachment raided a Rumanian divisional headquarters, killing 100 of the enemy and destroying two trucks.

The German drive in the Kalmyk area is about midway between the Moudok area and Stalingrad. Nomadic Kalmyks were reported to have sent a message to Premier Stalin that they were taking up arms to defend the homeland settled by their Mongol ancestors.

Several weeks ago the Germans claimed the capture of Elista, Kalmyk capital in the western part of the area, 180 miles west of Astrakhan.

Friday the Germans for the first time officially ignored the vast Stalingrad battle in their first communique since D.N.B. said the attempts to take Stalingrad by storm would be abandoned in favor of artillery and dive-bomber destruction. The communique claimed the capture of several Caucasian hills, the repulse of Russian attacks on the Don, and gains in the Lake Timen sector, in which five Russian divisions were said to have been dispersed or annihilated.

MILLION EVACUATED

BERNE, Oct. 9 (AP).—The Basler Arbeiter Zeitung said today that more than 1,000,000 German children have been evacuated from areas subjected to intense bombing in anticipation of heavy attacks this winter.

GET THE RIGHT-OR-WAY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP).—The United States Board of War Communications today decreed that beginning November 1 long-distance telephone calls dealing with the war effort or other phases of public security shall have the right-of-way over all others.

CURTAILMENT
IS HELD UPU.S. War Production Board
May Cut Down Paper
Making

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP).—An order calling for 10 per cent curtailment of paper production has been prepared by the War Production Board, but a last-minute hitch of undisclosed nature had held up its appearance, a W.P.B. spokesman disclosed tonight.

Newsprint was included in the limitation order, which was to have been accompanied by simultaneous orders for a similar cut by Dominion paper mills, which turn out 75 per cent of the newsprint used by United States newspapers.

(In Ottawa, officials of the War-time Prices and Trade Board declined to discuss the reports.)

ORDER APPROVED

Although two informed officials, whose names cannot be used, said the order had been approved and would appear shortly, a W.P.B. spokesman late in the day said it had been delayed.

It will not appear until the middle of next week at the earliest, he said, and may appear in altered form.

As originally written, the order would have frozen paper mill output at 90 per cent of the production volume of August and September.

Such a cut appeared necessary, it was stated, because of the shortage of manpower in the forests where pulpwood is cut, because power is increasingly being diverted to war plants, and because of the growing transportation problem.

Assigned Pay of Men Missing at
Dieppe Cut Off

TORONTO, Oct. 9 (CP).—Controller Fred Hamilton, of Toronto, today quoted Prime Minister Mackenzie King as saying "It is an outrage that the assigned pay of soldiers was cut off when the men were reported missing at Dieppe."

Mr. Hamilton said he interviewed the Prime Minister, who is in Toronto to address the American Federation of Labor Convention.

that such things were going on and he promised a full investigation into it," Mr. Hamilton said. "He asked me to direct all the facts concerning the matter to him personally for immediate action. I am sending all the letters I have received so that they will be on his desk tomorrow morning."

CONSERVATIVES
NAME OFFICERSProvincial Organizer Voices Optimism for Future at Saatch Meeting

A note of optimism was voiced last night at the annual meeting of the Saatch Conservative Association by Russell Walker, provincial organizer, who spoke of the fine future of the party in the field of national politics.

"There is almost universal satisfaction with the Coalition Government in British Columbia," he said. "Further, party members are all too busy with war work to bother with provincial matters, and also in their holding of a great majority of all elective positions in the province."

Exceptional interest and opportunity arises in the national field, he said, as was indicated in the recent spirited Port Hope conference. The vitality of the party was proved, he stated, by the actual conference, and by its urging of immediate mobilization to insure a maximum war effort.

GREAT FUTURE

"It is likely that a new leader will be chosen at the national convention in Winnipeg who will satisfy all factions," he said. "This is the most hopeful experience the party has had in years."

Sinclair Elliott, president of the Victoria Conservative Association, in a brief address, outlined a plan whereby associations in this area would meet regularly, act in accordance with one another, and thereby vastly increase their power.

PEOPLE

"Tell us what you want. We know that this war must be won. What matters money when life is at stake? What is mere self-denial compared to sacrifices of our men at Dieppe? We're ready for self-denial. We'll tighten our belts; we'll go without. We'll lend our money. We'll do everything to insure Victory. But tell us what we should do and let's get on with it."

Very well, then, you must SAVE and invest your savings in Victory Bonds.

What's your share of this Savings job? Well, the average Canadian would have to lend to Canada, to meet Canada's need, $1 in every $5 of income left after taxes and compulsory savings have been collected.

But the average may not fit your case.

Your own circumstances are distinctly your own. You may be able to do better both out of your current income and out of your accumulated savings in the bank—or you may not be able to reach the average. Your share of voluntary savings is every dollar you can possibly spare.

Up to now most of us who stay at home haven't suffered very much. We haven't had to practice much self-denial. On the contrary, most of us are earning and spending more money. Yet the price of this spending is being paid for by the blood and sacrifice of others.

We who stay at home must deny ourselves before we can claim to bear our share in this struggle. We must economize; go without; tighten our belts. We must save and buy Victory Bonds until we really feel the "pinch" of war's demands. We must learn that freedom must be paid for as well as fought for.

CLUB ACTIVITIES

W.A. Canadian Scottish

At the monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Scottish Regiment held on Wednesday afternoon, preliminary plans were made for a special Christmas shipment overseas to the 1st Battalion. Details were left to the executive who will meet on

Mrs. W. G. Talbot, 488 Oliver Street, to discuss arrangements. The monthly report of the Branch Fund at Nanaimo was read and reports of committees received. There are 176 woolen articles on hand. The Auxiliary is indebted to many interested friends, who, though not members, knit for the men of the regiment. Among these is Mrs. W. D. Phillips, 2280 Central Avenue, who in a short space of time has turned in 100 sleeveless sweaters and forty skull caps. The match book sales netted $28.81 for the month. Mrs. W. R. Russell, welfare chairman, appealed for boys' clothing, especially woolen underwear and jerseys. A shipment of woolen comforts and jerseys will be sent to the overseas unit, this month through the facilities of the Red Cross. The monthly shipment of cigarettes has been ordered. Mrs. R. D. Harvey consented to convene the Children's Christmas Party. A suggestion that the Auxiliary as a group provide Sunday entertainment for a number of servicemen was not acted upon as many individual members have opened their homes several evenings a week for the men of the forces. Group meetings in various districts will be held during the month.

W.A. to T.V.A.

A donation tea occupied the plans of members of the Women's Auxiliary to the T.V.A. at a meeting held on Thursday afternoon in the clubrooms, 812 Blanshard Street, when a standing vote of sympathy was passed in memory of the past president, Mrs. Mabel Burnett, whose presence will be greatly missed. Saturday, October 17, is the date chosen for the donation tea which will be held in the clubrooms, with Mrs. T. Adams and Mrs. A. Young in charge of miscellaneous stalls, while tea will be served by Mrs. E. Huellin, Mrs. R. Smirl and the tea committee will include Mrs. T. Brien and Mrs. M. Crabtree. Chicken dinner competition will be convened, and all interested guests and members of sister auxiliaries are invited to attend. The money will be devoted to the T.V.A. war fund. The treasurer's report, read by Mrs. N. Kelly, was reassuring, and the wool

After receiving her commission she took a three-week course at the ordinance training centre, Barriefield, Ont., and has now been posted to the M.G.O. Branch, Ottawa. Born in Rochester, Kent, England, Miss Watts came to Canada at the age of four and with her parents lived in Calgary and Banff, later moving to Victoria. W.A. to Orphanage

The monthly meeting of the Women's Committee to the Protestant Orphanage was held recently, with the president, Mrs. R. C.

ILLUSTRATING the great variety in the Fall millinery picture are hats sketched from the important New York openings. Top left, from Lilly Dache, an oversize beret of her new fabric, "paten," a material which is pliable but needs no wiring. To the right, Sally Victor attached a soft brim to a fringed shawl, a smart way of keeping the head warm in winter. Centre is John Frederic's new big brim with high crown, done in priority beige felt with a question-mark decoration of red and green felt. Left, Florence Reichman uses a stocking of purple felt with a drapery of pink in front, and matches the felt with purple gloves. Right centre, Braggsard names this hat, "Victorian," a charming flare-red felt small upturned sailor with black passementerie braid and a corn fringe around the crown and around. Lower left, Gladys & Belle illustrate the new fashion of putting a soft band between crown and brim, so that the crown may be worn high or telescoped. The hat is of Ming orange felt with black chenille inset and scarf, fringe trimmed. Lower right is the papakha, or Russian felt, as done by Erik. It is in red felt, trimmed with a black tassel in front.

Hughes, presiding. The visiting ladies, Mrs. Coult and Mrs. E. M. Brown, reported the children all well and happy. During the month they were entertained by the visiting committee. where the invaders have made no progress for the month past. The Red fleet also has helped prevent the Nazis breaking southward along the highway to Tugue.

The battle for Rabue is now in its third month and there is still bitter fighting inside the battered and blazing city.

The Japanese retreat in New Guinea, says the military correspondent of The Times, has been due to insuperable obstacles in the way of bringing up supplies. Though the Japanese are good jungle fighters, in Malaya they were unable to overcome the retreating British and Chinese forces, though they had no worse conditions to encounter.

A secondary explanation of the Japanese retreat in New Guinea may be the heavy losses to shipping. Japanese armies operating 3,000 miles from their bases require big transport tonnage and it is probable the invaders are now feeling the shortage. They have probably decided to withdraw in New Guinea and concentrate on defeating United States troops in the Solomons to repair "loss of face" they encountered there.

The Times quotes extensively the United States press on the lack of United Nations common strategy. Apparently there is a struggle at Washington between those who wish to equip a big army before undertaking the invasion of Continental Europe and those who believe utmost help should be given Russia at once.

Stalin's letter now seems to have been a plea for more supplies than ever for Russia, even if it meant delay in equipping the United States army.

Deaths from hunger among Belgian children are becoming appalling, according to the Swedish Relief Committee. Conditions in Belgium already are described as nearly as bad as in Greece. Tremendous attempts already are being made in Germany to increase war output during the coming winter. Companies, hitherto bitter rivals, are now forced into closest collaboration while Europe is searched for more and more manpower. Already two million foreign workers have been added to three and a half millions already in Germany.

Many units were the bulk of the reinforcements for infantry divisions including men for some of the regiments which went to Dieppe. Proud of their regimental record, these soldiers hoped a place would soon be found for them beside veterans of Canada's first continental fighting of this war.

The cheerful bronzed Canadians sounded their own welcome as the big troopships which carried them across the Atlantic without incident moved slowly to berths. The convoy also brought Canadian nursing sisters, fire fighters and a draft of the Royal Canadian Navy.

RALSTON MESSAGE

Sir Arthur Bromley, of the Dominion Office, welcomed some of the troops, while Col. J. L. Ralston, Canadian Defence Minister, who was unable to meet the convoy personally, sent a message expressing "Very hearty congratulations on your safe arrival."

"I join in the warm welcome you will receive from your comrades here," the Defence Minister said. "Canadian fighting forces have made a fine name for our Dominion. I know you will keep up the good work. Cheerio and great success."

The arrival was typical of scores of others since Canadian troops started to come to this country almost three years ago. As the grey liners appeared thousands of soldiers lined the rails, climbed onto lifeboats and peered through portholes for a glimpse of shore.

They piled onto the docks shouting, singing and whistling. Many threw cigarettes and small coins into the crowds.

The men were wearing every type of headgear, some with berets, Balmorals and stocking caps, others in steel helmets, forage or field service caps. All carried lifebelts until just before they embarked.

There were ordnance, artillery, engineer, army service and medical corps men aboard the ships. All were anxious to have their names taken down so their families would know they had arrived safely. Maj. John Proctor, of Edmonton, was brigade major of one brigade, while another officer of headquarters staff was Maj. H. E. N. Hackling, of Vancouver.

Sappers included P. R. Porteous, of Vancouver.

R.C.A.F. reinforcements included men for ground and air crews, among them was L.A.C. Bob Rose, Vancouver, radio technician.

VICTORIA MAN

Two West Coast representatives in the Ordnance Corps had artistic leanings. L.-Cpl. H. C. Whitehead, of Victoria, yearned to be a landscape painter, while Sgt. L. F. Weekes, of Vancouver, was a commercial artist turned scribbler.

It took Brig. A. M. Thomas, of Toronto, to give the example that showed just how keen these fighters were to get overseas.

"It was a great temptation," this move away from factories producing for Germany.

It also brought from the German radio the threat tonight of reprisals for raids "inspired by Roosevelt."

HELD BACK NEWS

For the first time the Germans mentioned Flying Fortresses, although this was their fourteenth raid over Western Europe. It appeared the Germans had been withholding from their people news that American air forces are taking part in European activities.

After elaborate preparation and in fine visibility, squadrons after squadrons of the Fortresses and Liberators rose to great heights over Britain and then headed over the Channel to reduce the Lille railway yards to wreckage and pour tons of bombs into the Lille Steel & Engineering Works, one of the most important locomotive building plants in France.

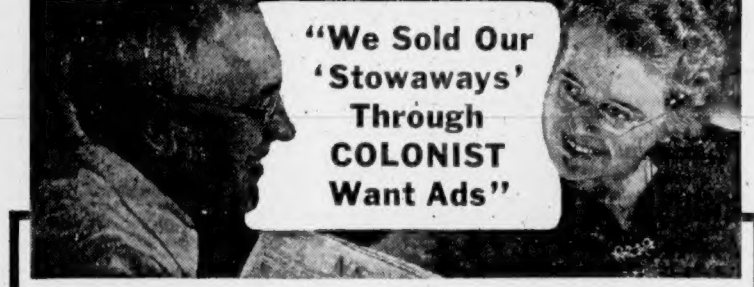

When they turned for home their crews could see fires burning in various parts of Lille while the city was covered with a pall of smoke.

Crews of two Canadian fighter squadrons helping escort the Fortresses and Liberators said they encountered more than fifty enemy fighters as they were leaving the target area after the bombing. They attacked a number of the enemy but the best divided away and evaded action.

Going up to his school teacher, the lad asked: "You wouldn't punish me for something I haven't done, would you?" "Certainly not, my boy," was the reply. "Now, tell me all about it."

"Well, I haven't done my homework."

The Days Ahead Will be Nagging Days

Taking tremendous toll of Man's Energies and Woman's Vitality

But men and women will accomplish their jobs despite the strain and ravages to the nervous system, so long as general health is maintained and the necessary amount of Vitamins and Mineral Substances are supplied in the food they eat.

It is now well known that if the morale of the soldier and the ambition and energy of the worker fade, it may quite possibly result from lack of Vitamin B₁ and the essential minerals in the food supply.

Because it takes some time to restore a run down nervous system, it is important that you should look ahead and build up your nervous energy, not only to be able to carry out your duties and responsibilities, but also to prevent the many ills and discomforts which come when vitality is running low.

While experts claim that Vitamin B₁ or Thiamin is necessary in sufficient quantities in the chemical process of digestion, they point out that Vitamins alone are not enough. You must also get the mineral substances which are often lacking in the diet, particularly during the cold weather months.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is designed to supply, in condensed and easily assimilated form, the ingredients from which nature restores vigor to the nervous system. The nervous system in turn supplies motive power to the body and nervous energy to the brain.

DRAW HEAVY FINE FOR PITLAMPING

NANAIMO, Oct. 9.—In the Provincial Police Court here, Superintendent Magistrate C. H. Beevor-Potts imposed the minimum fine of $500 or sixty days in jail on Michael Hendrickson and Bruce Buddot, two Wellington loggers, who pleaded guilty to a charge of hunting deer by night on the Hobbs-Loggin Road in Nanaimo district, October 8. Rifles, shells and flashlights were ordered confiscated. Game Warden Frank Greenfield, who apprehended the men, said he caught them red-handed, and while it was a serious offence and pitlamping had to stop, he would be satisfied with the minimum penalty as they were engaged in a war industry.

Magistrate Beevor-Potts pronounced pitlamping a cruel and cowardly way to exterminate deer. "The law is specific on the penalties," he added, "Hendrickson gave as his excuse that it was the only time he had to hunt as last Sunday was closed to hunters. 'Meat is high,' he added, 'You are only making your case worse,' said the court. 'Having a steady job you are able to pay for your meat.'"

Nanaimo Police Seeking Forgers

NANAIMO, Oct. 9.—Charges have been laid by local police and warrants issued for the arrest of two strangers who on October 3 are alleged to have cashed forged or worthless cheques in various Nanaimo beer parlours and stores totalling in the neighbourhood of $1,000. Each cheque was for $39.39 and they were drawn on the West Coast Construction Company.

WINS BY A TAIL

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 9 (AP).—A horse on Mrs. Ima Stevens' nearby farm won by a tail. The 1,100-pound animal fell through old planking into a twenty-two-foot well. Neighbors, deputy sheriffs and Veterinarian Eugene Theiss pulled it to safety by means of ropes fastened to the horse's harness—and to its tail.

Glancing Over Sport

By JOE DELAHUNTY

THE DAY'S ROUND-UP

The New Westminster Salmonbellies might just as well pack up night's second straight defeat at the hands of the Mimico-Brampton lacrosse squad in the battle for the Mann Cup, symbolic of the Dominion championship. No wonder they lost so badly. I picked the boys from the banks of the Fraser to win, and therefore the odds were against them from the start. If I don't get a winner before Christmas I will buy a "case" and let the boys enjoy themselves, that's only logical and fair. Whirlaway goes against Alsbach again today in the third race of these two great horses. Whirlaway is my choice as soon as the starting gate is sprung. The field is going two miles and a quarter and I don't think for one second that Alsbach can run that distance and come close to the greatest money-winner in turfdom's history.

After glancing over the soccer material that the Army and the V.M.D. have lined up for today's match at the Athletic Park, I think it will be very close all the way and the fans should be looking in on a keenly fought match. The shipbuilders to win in my books by two goals, at least. That prediction will make Manager Jock McCall to the bones, for he, as well as hundreds of others know that yours truly is never right. Fred Grant, the retired printer, speaking. "That play made by Reggie Clarkson in last Sunday's Canadian football game was one of the smartest I have ever seen in my life, and I have watched plenty of grid fixtures in my time. It was beautiful to see, he faked an end run and then heaved a long forward pass which ultimately won the match," said Fred as he left the sports department for home.

ODDS AND ENDS

There will be no hockey in the Vancouver Forum this coming Winter, for the Canadian army has taken over the place for the duration. That means the Mainland hockey teams will not be operating, except they travel all the way to New Westminster to play their games, and that's not in the books with the army and gas rationing in full force. Sometimes you run into a discussion about some branch of sport. Well, the other day I did, and it was about who was the greatest hockey player who ever lived a shoe. Art Knox, the lumberman, came out in the open and said that Lester Patrick was the best of the works. I admitted that the "Silver Fox" was mighty good in his day. He had as much if not more brains than any man who ever put on a pair of skates, but at the same time when you are going to pick an all-time star you must go by the record books. My choice is the late Howie Morenz, of the Montreal Canadiens, second is Eddie Shore, the former bruising defenceman of the Boston Bruins, and third on the list is "Cyclone" Taylor, who got his professional start with the old Renfrew Millionaires, later played for the Ottawa squad and then finished his career with Vancouver. Portland's Beavers, the club which finished in the "dark" spot in the Coast League, played in more over-time games than any club in the circuit. Twenty-four times the basement occupants went extra minutes during the 1942 campaign. They won thirteen, lost ten and tied one; much better record than could be turned in for the regulation contests. Seattle was next in line with twenty-three games, losing a dozen, winning nine and tying two. Los Angeles had twenty-two overtime battles, while Sacramento had twenty-one and Hollywood two less. Hal Turpin, the Rainiers veteran pitcher, was in the most extra-inning games with nine to his credit.

FROM HERE AND THERE

Met Norm Wallace, the former local golf star, on the street yesterday and he looks in the best of condition and appears as if he could hit a ball a mile. Remember when Norm, then only seventeen, reached the British Columbia amateur final at the Colwood course several years ago? That year he met Chuck Hunter of Tacoma, in the final, and beat out after an interesting battle. If my memory serves me right, I believe that the local shotmaker was leading by five up at one stage of the game, but he faltered on the home stretch to drop the decision to his more experienced opponent from across the boundary line. Outside of the Navy team, the rest of the managers of local hockey clubs are trying to keep their personnel in the dark, afraid that the other fellow will find just what strength he will have when the time comes. They might just as well make the squads public, for after all the line-ups will come out sooner or later. In yesterday's column I stated that Jimmy Spencer, the well-known Vancouver soccer player, would probably be with the Navy this year. Well, now I have been informed that Mr. Spencer will be doing his footballing for the V.M.D., along with Trevor Harvey, who was with the locals last season, but returned to the Mainland during the summer. Another chap who will be wearing the uniform of the shipbuilding plant shortly is Jimmy Tait, a clever lad from Nanaimo. I am still wondering when that picture, "The Pride of the Yankers," which depicts the life of the late Lou Gehrig, "iron man" first baseman of the New York Yankees, will ever get to town. It has been showing in Seattle for more than a week, but I guess it will arrive here about the middle of 1943. Remember when the hockey

WHIRLAWAY GOES TODAY

Will Face Alsbach at Belmont Park in $25,000 Handicap Event

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—Whirlaway and Alsbach, all-square after two clashes, hook up again tomorrow in the American turf's longest stake race on the flat—the two and quarter miles of the $25,000 Added New York Handicap at Belmont Park.

Eleven other horses have been named for the test of stamina, as well as speed, but if any of them with the possible exception of Townsend B. Martin's Bolingbroke, are under the wire ahead of either Whirlaway or Alsbach it'll be an upset.

Alsbach turned in the first victory in the series that has developed in the turf's No. 1 rivalry, hanging it on Warren Wright's ace by a whisker in the Narragansett Match Race. Whirlaway, however, evened matters last Saturday when he led Mrs. Albert Sabath's game little colt home by a length in the two miles of the Jockey Club Gold Cup at Belmont.

In between the two races Bolingbroke shipped Whirlaway in the Mainland Handicap with the aid of decided pull in the weights. But in the Gold Cup, Bolingbroke had to be content with third. Assignment of weights for tomorrow's handicap gives Alsbach a two-pound bigger advantage than he had in last week's weight-for-age event. This time, Whirlaway will pick up 130 to the Sab's 121. Bolingbroke gets in with 118.

LEAGUE WILL SEE ACTION

Mainland Hockey Circuit to Operate This Season—Forum Is Lost

NEW WESTMINSTER, Oct. 9 (AP)—Officials of the newly-formed Mainland Hockey League said today that despite loss of the Vancouver Forum to ice hockey this season, the league will go ahead with plans to operate a four-team hockey loop with double-enders to be played here once a week.

The Forum, only ice sheet in Vancouver, was taken over by the army in its recent occupation of Hastings Park.

A New Westminster team, an R.C.A.F. and an army entry and Vancouver Norvans team have signalled their intention to operate. Last season Island and Mainland teams competed in a Pacific Coast intermediate loop.

EASTERNERS DEFEAT WESTMINSTER TEAM IN BOXLA PLAY-OFF

Mimico-Brampton Stickhandlers Prove Too Clever For British Columbians and Chalk Up Second Straight Victory, 15-9—Made Heavy Favorites to Win the Title

By ALLAN HARVEY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

MAPLE LEAF GARDENS, Toronto, Oct. 8 (CP)—Mimico-Brampton Combines pulverized a willing but outmatched New Westminster Salmonbellies team into submission 15-9 tonight and established themselves as overwhelming favorites to win the Mann Cup and Canada's Lacrosse Championship in three straight games.

The combination of brilliant netminding by Bert Large and a sharpshooting efficiency, Salmonbellies could never match gave Combines an overwhelming advantage which even the one-sided score did not begin to reflect, and convinced the 3,532 fans who crowded into Maple Leaf Gardens for the second game of the best-of-five series that Combines will close out the set next Monday.

Combines looked much smoother than they did in the opening minutes. Downey was through on Large but missed. Large thwarted Black from in close. Tempters were beginning to flare as Downey and Masters engaged in a pushing duel. Combines then took up where they left off in the second period, McLean scoring on a low shot from ten feet out.

The officials called four penalties seconds apart to Davy, Masters, A. Dixon and Jim Douglas. Combines then popped in two fast goals to make it 11-3. Williams scored the first from directly in front of Scuby, and Ken Dixon got the other after taking Large's pass in the clear.

Bryant moved in on a dangerous rush for Salmonbellies but Large outguessed him. In was the best rush of the game for Salmonbellies. On the return rush McLean converted a pass from Bill Mullis to make it 12-3 for the Ontario titlists.

Gimblett was hurt when he raced headlong into Wilkes at centre. Gimblett limped to the bench and Wilkes was given a penalty.

McLean took a pass from Jim Mullis right in front of Scuby and fired as Scuby fell for an easy goal. Then Marcus Smith scored his first goal to make it 13-4. Just as the period ended, Williams scored for Combines on a crashing rush, finally winding up inside the net on top of Scuby.

FOURTH PERIOD

Salmonbellies pressed to the attack but couldn't beat Large. Finally at 5:20 Askew took a pass from Houston, hesitated briefly and then swept an ankle-high shot to the off corner. Salmonbellies began to carry the play but their passes were going astray. Marcus Smith's hard shot was deflected past an open corner.

Art Pruden, returning to the line-up from a sick bed, scored Salmonbellies' second goal of the period at 5:26 after play had slowed down considerably. Salmonbellies had three more open shots on Large before they clicked again, Jim Douglas scoring on Downey's pass. Arch Dixon's bounding shot just failed to elude Scuby. Salmonbellies raced in three abreast but the pass was wide. Wilkes was chased for slashing, temporarily slowing down the Salmonbellies' resurgence. Jim Douglas did get clear on one rush but couldn't get a shot away. Combines started to toy with Salmonbellies, passing the ball back and forth with little interference. Arthur broke away for Combines to make it 15-7. Then Salmonbellies tallied two quick goals, Raitt and Smith setting the counters.

Former Athlete on Leave

MURRAY "MUZZ" PATRICK

YOUNGEST son of Lester Patrick, boss of the New York Rangers hockey club in the National League, caught by The Colonial cameraman yesterday in front of his home on Linden Avenue. "Muzz" is home on a holiday from Fort Jay, New York, and will be leaving for his camp some time this week. Since his arrival in the city, the former athletic star has been renewing old acquaintances. When questioned if he intended to return to the boxing ring, the ex-defenceman for his father's club said that he didn't think that he would enter into the fight game seriously again. "If the war ends in the near future, which we all hope it does, I will return to professional hockey," stated "Muzz."

DETROIT BUYS TWO PLAYERS

Pays $26,000 for Services of Pat Egan and Harry Watson for Year

DETROIT, Oct. 9 (AP)—Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings, announced today the purchase for $26,000 of defencemen Pat Egan and Forward Harry Watson, of the disbanded Brooklyn American Club, who was dropped from the National Hockey League.

Adams said he received word from Frank Calder, National League president, that Detroit's offer for the two players was acceptable. The six remaining league clubs had entered sealed bids for four available players.

Egan, the league's most penalized player last year, is working in a West Coast shipyard and is reported to be planning to give up hockey, but Adams said the Detroit Club would make contact with him for a definite decision. Watson, from Saskatoon, Sask., is nineteen years old.

PRINCETON TO TACKLE NAVY

Important Grid Battles Scheduled Today Through The United States

NEW YORK, Oct. 9 (AP)—Navy and Princeton, playing at the Yankee Stadium in New York because of transportation difficulties, are expected to top the East in the turn-out of United States college football fans tomorrow.

Estimates are that 35,000 persons will see the game here, far more than could reach Princeton, N.J., where it was originally scheduled.

The biggest crowd in any stadium is awaited at Columbus, where 60,000 are expected to pour through the turnstiles for the University of Southern California-Ohio State game.

Take a good-sized portion of inter-collegiate football games involving teams of major calibre, stir in an even larger number of battles between big teams in the same sections or leagues and season liberally with a spicy service football and you'll get tomorrow's football stew. At least, it will be something that will put the gridiron experts in a stew trying to figure out the results.

Heavy Schedule Is Set for Grid Men

Football Squads Facing Hard Grind This Coming Week-End on the Canadian Gridiron—Games Set for Today and Thanksgiving Day and All Teams Will See Action

TORONTO, Oct. 9 (CP)—The men who mapped the Ontario Rugby Football Union's playing programme this season apparently ranked durability high among gridiron virtues. For this holiday week-end, the schedule-makers have arranged one of the heaviest football logs in years. Each of the six teams will go into action Saturday and again on Thanksgiving Day. Here is the card:

Saturday—Royal Canadian Air Force Hurricanes at Hamilton Wildcats; Toronto H.M.C.S. York vs. Toronto-Oakwood Indians and Kitchener-Waterloo Panthers vs. Toronto Balm Beach, at Toronto.

Monday—Hamilton at Kitchener; Beaches vs. H.M.C.S. York and Hurricanes vs. Indians, at Toronto. Leadership in the East's one return to the line-up.

Toronto's Navy team drawn against Indians Saturday and Beaches on Monday will again be without the services of Quarterback Elwin Morris, hard-luck guy of Eastern football for the last two years. Morris was on the sidelines most of last season, suffered three cracked ribs at the start of this season and then cracked a knee in practice this week when all set to return to the line-up.

BOMBERS WIN EASY FIXTURE

Trim University of Manitoba in Gridiron Battle by One-Sided Score

WINNIPEG, Oct. 9 (CP)—A score of fumbles paved the way for Winnipeg Bombers' 31-0 victory over University of Manitoba Bisons in a Winnipeg Rugby football senior league game before about 3,000 spectators here tonight.

Bisons did not threaten until the final quarter but then their efforts were shattered by fumbles which caused them to lose possession of the ball at critical moments.

The victory pushed Bombers into a first-place tie with the Royal Canadian Air Force Flyers and was Varsity's third loss in as many starts.

Going into a 12-0 lead in the first quarter, Bombers increased the margin to 26-0 by half time. They garnered their final points in the third quarter. Ken Preston played a head-up game for Bombers, crashing over for three of five touchdowns.

TORONTO, Oct. 9 (CP)—Spring in Toronto: Ten to Ace is the greatest horse in Canadian racing. Autumn in Toronto: Fred Schickel's Shepperton is the best Canadian three-year-old. . . . Ten to Ace no longer rates top play in these parts, and when Harry Giddings' King's Plate winner ran third behind Tinted Chick and Little Kingpin on Woodbine's get-away day, the newspapers gave the race only casual mention. . . . Shepperton got the play for his Breeder's Stakes victory, and Lou Davies, Western Canada's noted authority, agreed with Eastern experts that Ontario-owned Shepperton is the Dominion's best.

Puck Patter—Harry (Calgary Albertan) Scott reports Tiny Thompson, one of hockey's greatest goalies while with Boston Bruins and Detroit Red Wings, has been offered a contract by Chicago Black Hawks, whose manager is brother Paul Thompson. . . . But Harry says Tiny is unwilling to come out of retirement and probably will winter at Vancouver, where he has a chicken ranch.

Army teams in Regina and Moose Jaw may be managed respectively by Murray Armstrong, the former Brooklyn star, and Bud McDonald, veteran of minor pro leagues. . . . Dave MacKay, former Chicago defenceman, is slated to coach Nanaimo Clippers in the Vancouver Island League again, and possibly will have as a player another former Black Hawk, Bill Carse, of Edmonton, who is now an army corporal.

PATRICK OPENS HIS ICE SCHOOL

WINNIPEG, Oct. 9 (CP)—Lester Patrick announced tonight that his ninth annual Ranger hockey school closed today.

The thirty-five players who attended classes during the week were carefully scrutinized by Patrick, head of New York Rangers National League team, and Frankie Boucher, Rangers coach.

Patrick said that "unless passport complications arise, several of the boys will be taken" to round out the New York Rangers, Rangers farm team in the Eastern United States Amateur League.

He said, however, that status of the E.U.S.A.H.L. for the coming season has not yet been determined.

During classes Boucher watched the players from Western Canada junior teams show their ability in regular hockey style. Players were divided into four sides for the workouts.

Boucher termed them a "fine bunch of prospects."

ALBERTA GOPHERS CARRYING PLAGUE

Large Area Quarantined as Animals Infected With "Black Death"—Urges Destruction

EDMONTON, Oct. 9 (AP)—J. H. Boush, of the department of agriculture at the University of Alberta, reported today that a 1,200-square-mile area east of Edmonton has been quarantined as a district where gophers show a positive reaction to tests for plague.

When the disease first appeared in Alberta in 1937 with the death of a Stomach man in the Drumheller area, Mr. Boush has carried out a series of tests. A positive reaction to the plague was indicated and gophers were found to be carriers of the disease.

There have been five deaths among humans in Alberta from the disease. Humans may get the disease by the bite of a gopher. The disease is spread by the blood stream through handling diseased gophers (septicemia) and by infection through the lungs.

Alderman W. Lloyd Morgan To Discuss Question With Real Estate Board

Representatives of Victoria transportation companies will be asked to attend a meeting of the Real Estate Board of Victoria on Tuesday.

The subject arose at a luncheon meeting of the board yesterday in Spencer's dining-room, when Frank Morgan, chairman of the Greater Victoria transportation committee, will discuss the transportation situation here.

Others may attend

He was followed by Alderman Morgan, who was invited to present the subject more fully. It was also suggested that representatives of other local organizations be asked to attend the luncheon.

THE X-RAY MOST IMPORTANT PART OF EXAMINATION FOR TUBERCULOSIS

If you were to visit a sanatorium, you would find that the most important part of the examination for tuberculosis is the X-ray examination. This is because the X-ray examination is the only way to detect the disease in its early stages.

Why was the family physician able to detect tuberculosis in its early stages? The answer is simple: because he consulted him because of various symptoms, some of these symptoms were detected by the X-ray examination.

The physical examination does not always tell the story. The presence or absence of the germ is the only way to detect the disease. The X-ray examination is the only way to detect the disease in its early stages.

FULLY AWARE

"Do you know the nature of an X-ray?" a woman was asked when she was asked to undergo the examination. She replied, "I am fully aware of it."

WAR POSTPONES WATERWAY PLAN

Roosevelt Says St. Lawrence Project "Out" for Duration

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9 (AP).—The St. Lawrence power and navigation scheme is out for the duration because of shortage of steel and manpower, President Roosevelt said today.

At a White House press conference, an up-to-date New York editor said the St. Lawrence development is becoming a political issue in the New York elections with the Republicans claiming the President had abandoned his support for it, despite the platform of the Democratic party.

The President said he is not particularly interested in the political side of the St. Lawrence development because he has long since ceased to think of it as a political question.

It is a physical situation, not a political one, the President continued. It is physical because Canadian and American commerce cannot use the cheapest of all transportation from the heart of the continent, water transportation.

During the war, the President said, the construction of the waterway and the power-house is a military matter and he would not, under present conditions, start but that does not change the physical necessity of creating an access to the sea.

There is no doubt that if the United Nations win the war, the construction of the waterway plan will be inevitable, he added, because it would benefit both Canada and the United States.

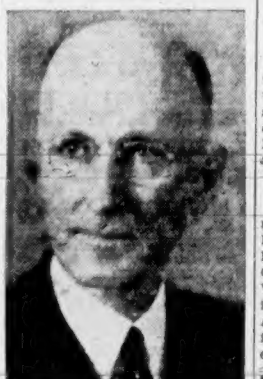

SUPPLY OF NEW NICKELS ARRIVES

The new "blackout" nickel made its first appearance in Victoria yesterday, as E. K. Campbell, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, received a small consignment of twelve-sided gold-colored coins from Vancouver banks.

The nickel, of copper and zinc alloy, is near enough to a perfect circle to operate successfully pay phones, slot machines and juke boxes, and yet provides small corners by which to distinguish it in the crowd.

Mr. Campbell said, "These new nickels are not likely to be in general use in Victoria for some time, due to a tremendous supply of silver already on hand here, that is, unless the Government decides to recall the old ones."

ANNIVERSARY TO BE NOTED SUNDAY

REV. W. L. MCKAY

Special services in commemoration of the fifteenth anniversary of the erection of the present church auditorium will be held in the Emmanuel Baptist Church on Sunday and Monday. The church had its beginnings in a small Sunday school opened in the district then known as Spring Ridge in 1884.

The first meetings of the school were held in the home of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter Wilson, and the first officers of the school were the late ex-Mayor John L. Beckwith, superintendent; Peter Wilson, assistant; W. C. Stephenson, secretary; C. Knudsen, treasurer, on February 6, 1887, a Sunday school building was opened and dedicated, and in the year 1889 a church was organized and duly named Emmanuel Baptist Church. The present church building, was erected in 1892 during the pastorate of the late Rev. H. P. McEwen.

The services will be conducted by the present pastor, Rev. Wilfrid L. McKay, and the guest preacher for both services on Sunday will be Rev. Henry Knox, a former pastor, now ministering to Vancouver Heights Baptist Church. Mr. Knox will preach in the morning on the subject "A Jubilee Summons," and in the evening, "The Saviour of the World."

At the morning service Emmanuel Sunday school and Shelbourne Street Mission Sunday school will meet with the congregation at the 11 o'clock service. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock the Lord's Supper will be administered and new members received into the fellowship of the church. Special music will be rendered by the choir, and the soloists will be James Oakman, Mrs. B. C. Gillie and Ralph McAdam.

The Monday evening services will begin with a thanksgiving dinner at 6 o'clock. At 8:15 Dr. A. E. Whitehouse, Metropolitan United Church, will address a public meeting. Special music by the choir and solo numbers by Miss Catherine Denison, Mrs. Charles Goodwin, H. C. Parfitt and G. H. E. Green.

DUNCAN SCHOOL BOARD

At a meeting of the Duncan School Board, the resignation of A. E. Strouger, for twenty-eight years head of the school junior staff, was received with regret. Mr. Strouger was granted leave of absence a month ago, owing to poor health, but his resignation at this time came as a surprise. A bonus of $75 was ordered added to his cheque.

A thousand identification discs were ordered for distribution amongst the students in the schools. Adult evening classes in stenographic practice will be opened in the school shortly. Twenty applicants are available for the course.

A Dressmaker Slip, Proportioned for Perfect Fit With All the Features You Want in a Slip

Mary Barron Slips

In Perfect Sizes 2²⁵ and 2⁵⁰
32 to 44

The slip that conforms to every motion of the body, Mary Barron is based on an entirely different principle of slip design than ordinary straight cut or bias cut slips. Besides the perfect cut and fit it's made of excellent wearing crepe or satin lace trimmed with venise edging or hemstitched finish. Sizes 32 to 44, in tearose, white or colored taffetas.

Su-lette Slips 2⁰⁰

These popular slips, that conform to the figure perfectly without a bulge or a wrinkle, are made of good wearing rayon crepe or rayon satin. Shaped just like with Laxtex back panel for perfect fit. Sizes 32 to 38 $2.00

Kayser Twinseam Slips . . . 1⁹⁸

Kaybar Slips

For hard everyday wear choose a Kaybar. They wash and wear so well and are tailored to fit in sizes 32 to 44. 1.98
